JOBS FOR 730,000

Proposal for Loans to Colleges Is Defeated as Industrial Credit Is
Voted by 178 to 6.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(UP)—Federal credits of $440,000,000 to grease the wheels of small industries were authorized by the house today. The vote was 178 to 6.

RFC loans of $75,000,000 to cities to pay school teachers' salaries also were authorized.

The bill carrying these new recovery credits now goes to the conference with the senate, which has authorized federal reserve banks and the RFC to lend $700,000,000 to small business.

The federal reserve board, after a recent survey, estimated industry could use $850,000,000 of working capital that it was unable to obtain from banks and other regular sources.

It said this amount would assure continued employment of 350,000 persons and create new jobs for 350,000 more.

Differences.

The house bill limits the loans to $300,000,000 by the 12 reserve banks and $140,000,000 by the RFC. No firm could obtain more than $100,000. The senate bill would permit $1,000,000 loans.

A factory owner needing funds would apply first to a committee of five at the reserve bank for his district. If his credit was considered good, the bank would advance the money. If he was turned down, he could apply to the RFC, which would not demand as good security as the reserve banks.

The amendment for public school loans was adopted, 113 to 30, after sharp debate.

Representative John J. Douglas, democrat, Massachusetts, said federal aid was needed to keep many schools open next fall.

"It's a gold brick except for Chicago," he retorted. Representative H. L. Rice, republican, Massachusetts, said:

"It necessitates full and adequate security before loans can be made. Only in Chicago can that requirement be met. There is no one here who would lend a dollar on any tax anticipation warrant in the United States."

College Loans Beaten.

A proposal for loans to colleges was defeated. The house, however, approved sections modifying the RFC act to permit

Barrow and Gun Moll Slain in Police Trap

Desperado Dies With Gun in Hand As Dillinger
Aids Get Jail Terms in Red Letter
Day for Law.

By the Associated Press.

The law established for itself yesterday a red-letter record, topped by the ambushing and fatal shooting near Arcadia, La., of Clyde Barrow, notorious Texas outlaw, and his cigar-smoking gunwoman, Bonnie Parker. In Minnesota and Illinois, it also won victories.

At St. Paul, two associates of desperado John Dillinger, his friend, Evelyn Frechette, and the physician who treated his wounds, Dr. Clayton May, were found guilty of harboring the criminal and were sentenced to prison for two years and fined $1,000 each.

Also at St. Paul, Beth Green, wife of the slain Eugene Green, Dillinger aid, was sentenced to 15 months in the reformatory.

The charge: Harboring John Dillinger.

In Chicago, James Lacey and Benjamin Wolfman pleaded guilty to the attempted abduction of Emanuel Philip Adler, Davenport (Iowa) newspaper publisher.

In Tucson, police made another arrest in connection with the kidnaping of 6-year-old June Robles.

BARROW AND WOMAN PAID
RIDE INTO DEATH POCKET

ARCADIA, La., May 23.—Clyde Barrow, notorious Texas outlaw, and his cigar-smoking gunwoman, Bonnie Parker, were ambushed and shot to death near here today in a swiftly-terminated encounter with a posse led by a Louisiana sheriff and an old-time Texas ranger.

The law-mocking desperado, whizzing along the Jamestown-Sailes road, a little used highway, at 35 miles an hour, ran right into a trap set for him, after having been lured into the state by a relative of an escaped convict, who promised protection.

Before he or Bonnie Parker could get their guns into action, the officers riddled them with bullets.

Continue Fire.

Barrow's car, running wild, careened from the road and smashed into an embankment. As the wheels spun, the posse continued to fire until the car was almost shot to pieces.

The body of the gunman, who four years ago was a minor hoodlum, scarcely known outside of Dallas, was found slumped behind the steering wheel, a revolver in one hand.

Bonnie Parker died with her head between her knees. She still was clutching the machine gun.

"A killed Clyde Barrow at 9:15 this morning," reported Ted Hinton, one of the Texas officers, to the sheriff's office in Dallas. "They

$1,010,000 IN BIDS FOR STATE ROADS ASKED BY BOARD

Two June Contract Lettings Will Total $2,000-000; To Pave Gap in Atlanta-Augusta Route.

The state highway board Wednesday issued a call for bids on $1,010,000 worth of federal and state paving, grading and bridge work on which contracts will be let June 7. Of the total to be contracted for, approximately $335,000 is state funds and $475,000 federal funds.

Included among the projects are two important paving jobs, the 12-mile stretch between Washington and Thomson and the 10-mile stretch between Barnesville and the Monroe county line on the Barnesville-Perry short route.

The paving of the Washington-Thomson gap in Wilkes and McDuffie counties will complete the paving of the Atlanta-Athens-Augusta route while the work on the Barnesville-Fort Valley road is considered highly important because it is the first on this stretch which when completed will cut off more than 40 miles of the route between Atlanta and south Georgia points reached through Perry and eliminate the necessity of going through Macon.

Chairman W. E. Wilburn of the highway board said that the letting was one of two planned for June, the other being tentatively scheduled for June 28 when a similar amount of work will be let.

In addition to the Washington-Thomson and Barnesville-Perry projects, the following will be let for contract on June 7:

Paving of 5,613 miles in Crawford county on the Columbus-Macon road, beginning four miles east of Knoxville and ending at the Bibb county line.

Paving of 4,770 miles and construction of two bridges in Wilcox county on the Lincoln-Augusta road, beginning at Abbeville and extending northward.

Paving of 2,500 miles in Wilkeson county on the Dublin-Wrightsville-Sandersville road in the city of Wrightsville.

Paving of 1,694 miles in Johnson county on the Dublin-Wrightsville-Sandersville road in the city of Wrightsville.

Paving of 715 miles and widening of one bridge in Polk county on the Abbeville-Hawkinsville road, beginning at Abbeville and extending westward.

Paving of 1,345 miles in Chatham county on the Savannah-Statesboro road inside the city limits of Pooler.

Paving of 965 miles and grading of 2,013 miles in Calhoun county on the Fort Gaines-Morgan road, the paving inside the city limits of Eatonton and the grading inside the city limits of Morgan.

Paving of 2,235 miles and construction of one culvert in Columbia county on the Ocala road, beginning at Ocala and extending southward.

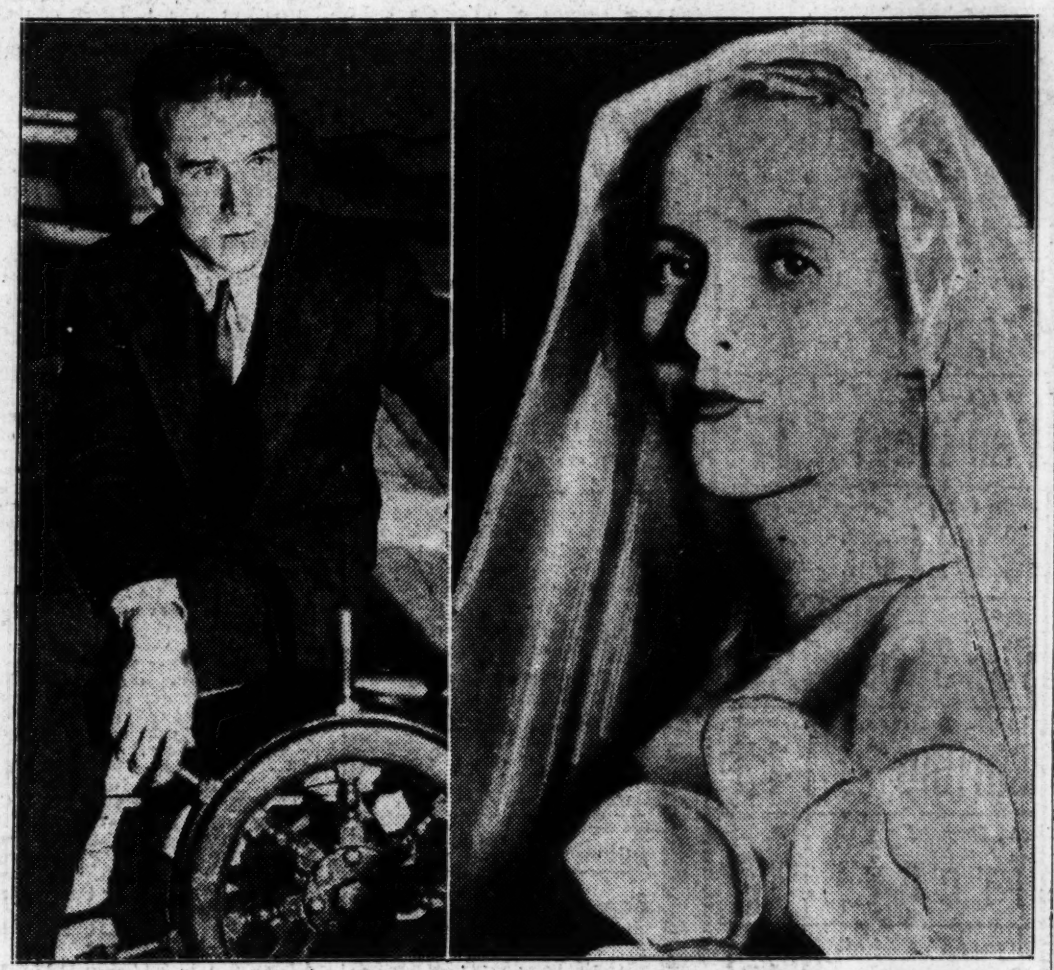

Grading of 2,836 miles and construction of one culvert in Columbia county on the Ocala road, beginning at Ocala and extending southward.

Grading of 3,735 miles in Brantley county on the Nahant-Jessup road, beginning at Nahant and extending northward.

Mercy Fliers Find Stricken Explorer Too Ill to Undergo an Operation

Mrs. Florence Crane Robinson, helress of the Richard T. Crane millions, and her husband, William Albert T. Robinson, scientist and explorer, who was stricken with appendicitis on his honeymoon voyage in the Galapagos islands. On the front of the plane, Mrs. Robinson, two planes with medical aid were ordered from Los Angeles to make the 4,000-mile dash along the equator. The planes reached the stricken young scientist but found him too ill for an immediate operation. Associated Press photos.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(UP)—The navy was informed tonight that the condition of William Albert Robinson, stricken with appendicitis aboard his yacht at Tagus Cove, Galapagos islands, was too critical for an immediate operation.

Lieutenant Commander Herman H. Halland, in charge of the navy planes which raced to aid the suffering engineer and explorer, reported by radio that Robinson would be placed aboard the destroyer Hale and taken to Balboa.

The Hale is now en route to Tagus Cove and will speed directly for Balboa as soon as the planes bearing the medical officers to Robinson's assistance have been refueled. Mrs. Robinson will accompany her husband.

Halland's message said:

"Plane detachment arrived Tagus Cove 8:48 p. m. Medical officers examined patient and report condition critical. Probable ruptured appendix, with general peritonitis. Immediate operation not advisable due to patient's general condition. Upon arrival of Hale will transfer patient with medical officers to Hale and send to Balboa where planes are serving."

Blind Alabaman Seeks To Aid Brother in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 23.—(AP)—A blind man who hitch-hiked to Ohio from his home in Alabama, went before Governor George White today to ask clemency for his brother, Thomas W. Griffin, convicted robber now in the Ohio penitentiary.

The prisoner's brother, Ed Griffin, 37, of Huntsville, Ala., came to Ohio assisted by his 15-year-old nephew, Cameron Thompson. They stopped in Akron, where they consulted with a lawyer, and then came to Columbus, where they were met by the governor.

The blind man told the governor his brother's wife had died recently in Alabama, leaving three small children. The governor took the plea under advisement.

ORDER IS SIGNED AND HEARING SET BY 3-JUDGE COURT

Railroads Charge in Petition That Proposed Rate Probe Would Cost
Them $75,000 and New Evidence Not Available.

HEARING BY COURT IS SET FOR JUNE 2

No Effort Made To Enjoin Commission From Issuing New Rate Order.
Talmadge, Wilhoit Silent

A three-judge federal court Wednesday temporarily enjoined the Georgia public service commission's projected inquiry into railroad freight rates scheduled for next Monday. Hearing on the application of the railroads for a permanent injunction has been set for June 2 in Atlanta.

The order halting the rate inquiry was obtained by Judge Walter T. Colquitt and Attorney Frank Gwathney, of Washington, from Circuit Judge Richard N. Walker, of Huntsville, Ala.; District Judge William L. Grubb, of Birmingham; and District Judge E. Marvin Underwood, of Atlanta. These three judges will hear the case here.

Judge Colquitt and Mr. Gwathney visited the two Alabama jurists at their homes Wednesday morning and late in the day obtained concurrence of Judge Underwood at Rome, where he has been holding court this week.

Governor Eugene Talmadge and Chairman Jud P. Wilhoit, of the public service commission, both declined to comment on the order of the court.

Cost of $75,000 Claimed.

In their petition for the injunction the railroads charge that the hearing planned by the commission will cost them upwards of $75,000 and claim that they have no new evidence to submit to the commission.

The commission, having made a full report on their various situations at a hearing several months ago, claims that the recent order, enjoined by the court, has been rescinded by the commission in an effort to dodge the judgment of the court.

The railroads made an effort to enjoin the commission from issuing a new order on their freight rates, merely asking the court to prevent the scheduled investigation.

The commission, in fixing the latest rate inquiry, let it be known that it felt it necessary in order that when and if a new rate reduction order is issued, the railroads will be able to put up their first and second reductions and thereby get into the federal courts with a plea for an order barring lower rates from going into effect.

Despite the recently adopted Johnson act which prevents utilities from taking rate cases into the federal courts and forces them into the state courts for adjudication.

Assistant Attorney General John T. Goree said Wednesday that he had been served with a copy of the petition of the railroads, but that he understood it was to be presented to Judge William H. Barrett, of Augusta.

The petition points out that the commission in answering previous injunction pleas in the court insisted that the hearing it had held into rate structures had been complete and exhaustive and asserted that there is nothing further for the commission to learn about rates and therefore a new inquiry would serve no good purpose.

Former Hearst Editor.

In their petition the railroads alleged that the public service commission admitted answering previous injunction pleas by insisting that its recent investigation into rates was exhaustive and conclusive. They set out that conditions have changed since the first inquiry several months ago, and that they have no new evidence to support an answer to the commission's rule nisi.

The petitioners also set out that the rate schedule ordered by the commission in March has been held by

ATLANTA BREWERY SALES ARE BARRED F. D. R. TO EQUALIZE RECOVERY GAINS

Orders From Washington Bar Sale of 3.2 by Plant; Dry Law Cause.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(UP)—President Roosevelt is preparing to intervene to see that the small businessman and the consumer get a square deal under the new deal, the United Press learned tonight.

To obtain an accurate picture of the effect of NRA orders upon the little merchant the house today sent a conference among the heads of four agencies closely allied with this phase of recovery.

These are: The NRA consumers' board, the NRA statistical and planning division, the federal trade commission and the national recovery review board. The date of the conference has not been fixed. It was understood the president would wait until after the review board had issued its first report.

NRA declared department of justice agents had been sent to northern West Virginia to investigate charges that the bituminous coal code authority in that district was guilty of malfeasance in office. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings denied that agents already had been dispatched, but said such action was being considered. He said the justice department had received many complaints of irregularities in that region.

Roosevelt Silent.

As Nye returned the attack in a controversy which has plunged the entire nation into debate and conjecture, Mr. Roosevelt declined to comment on the Darrow report which

Proposed by Nye.

A meeting of this kind was proposed in the senate today by Senator Gerald P. Nye, republican, North Dakota, in another attack on General Hugh S. Johnson and other high NRA officials in connection with their response to the Darrow report.

Nye said tonight he understood the president was planning such a conference. He asserted a complete shake-up in NRA is imperative if the small businessman is not to be driven out of existence and the consumer further oppressed under codes.

Blevins Is Badly Hurt In Crash With Truck

Beeler Blevins, one of the best known airplane pilots in the south, was badly hurt Wednesday night when his plane crashed into a building in the city of Atlanta.

Grady hospital in an unconscious condition with a decompressed fracture of the skull following a collision between the car he was driving and a heavy truck on Stewart avenue, near Cleveland avenue. He was picked up at the scene of the accident and taken to the hospital in the ambulance of Donehoo, Brandon & Pruitt, Hapeville undertakers. His condition is serious.

According to Patrolmen W. F. Morris and J. W. Jones of the Hapeville police force, who investigated the accident, Blevins was driving toward Hapeville and the truck, driven by Albert Coraley, of 46 Central avenue, Atlanta, was traveling toward Atlanta. The vehicles sideswiped, they said. The passenger car was almost demolished but the truck was not damaged.

IT'S UP TO THE WOMEN

By Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt

What does the First Lady of the land think about marriage, divorce, children, careers for women, family income, health, the household? The Constitution presents herewith the fourth of a series of sixty articles, giving her opinion in a chatty, confiding tone as if she talked with you across the tea table. Every word has been written by Mrs. Roosevelt herself. There has been no collaboration.

IV—MARRYING TOO YOUNG

The first year of married life is bound to be a year of adjustment. No matter how well two people have known each other beforehand, meeting every day across the table over the breakfast coffee is a degree of intimacy which brings out many unknown traits. Again you must retain a receptive attitude, but try to make your son-in-law and your daughter-in-law feel that you are not trying to shape their lives. Young people need help, but they do not need criticism or interference.

Sometimes young people marry too young to know fully whether they are suited to each other, or how they will develop in the future, but this is something which they do not realize at the time. No amount of argument on the part of the elders ever seems to convince the younger generation and so we have to remember that only experience can teach certain things in life.

The older generation, when we were young, thought it their duty to advise us, but I doubt if we were any more really affected by it though we listened more attentively than would our children of today.

Each generation must learn by its own experience and though it may

Firemen answered the alarm but were unable to cope with the fire as there was no water available, the house being outside of the city limits.

quitted by a justice court in the death of his wife, has been indicted by the Gilmer county grand jury on charges of murder.

Mrs. Randall was killed in an automobile accident at White Path near here July 28 and Randall was discharged at a preliminary hearing August 19. The grand jury indictment was returned yesterday.

Randall was released under $10,000 bond after the indictment was returned. The trial date has not been set but probably will be called at the October session of court.

Mrs. Randall's skull was crushed when their automobile ran off an embankment near the Randall home and was wrecked on jagged rocks. Randall received only minor injuries. Defense counsel, including Congressman John S. Wood, of Georgia, and J. Bowers Campbell, of Fort Myers, presented no evidence but contented themselves with arguments. Randall was freed after a nine-hour hearing. Judge C. E. Davis, of Madison, aided the prosecution.

BANKERS TO DISCUSS CODE AT ALBANY MEET

State Convention To Open Today and Vote on NRA Rules Expected.

ALBANY, Ga., May 23.—(P)—The bankers code will come up for discussion before the annual convention of the Georgia Bankers Association here tomorrow.

Bankers of the state are expected to vote on adoption of the NRA rules of fair practices, discuss banking insurance, public relations and private banking at the two-day meeting.

Ronald Ransom, of Atlanta; W. S. Elliott, of Canton, and E. A. Wilbanks, of Buford, are on Thursday morning's program for addresses. Others on Thursday's program include W. A. Slaton, of Washington, Ga.; J. Phil Campbell, of Washington, D. C.; and H. G. Langford, of Meansville.

The annual dinner of the association will be held Thursday night.

R. E. Gormley, state superintendent of banks will address the convention Friday. Other speakers Friday will include James S. Peters, of Manchester; J. H. Hubert, of Athens, and W. C. Bowman, Montgomery, Ala.

Following the reports of committees and election of officers a golf tournament will be held Friday afternoon over the Radium Springs course.

Welter Envisions New School System

MACON, Ga., May 23.—(P)—Scoring the educational systems of the past for their failure to achieve a better mastery over environment, Philip Welter, chancellor of the university system of Georgia, urged in an address today to the Macon Rotary Club, the shaping of today's educational system so as to promise a better future for the entire state.

He pictured the state educational system as a means of providing this opportunity not only for the 8,000 young people in the institutions but for people everywhere.

Instead of the type of education consisting in the mere recitation of facts, Chancellor Welter called for facing the new day with the vision of a new type of education that would recognize the value of the past and take account of the forces of the present.

HAIL STORM DAMAGES GEORGIA FRUIT CROP

Buildings at Bainbridge Impaired; Peaches Hurt in Fort Valley Area.

MACON, Ga., May 23.—(P)—Hail that was ushered in by a high wind, ripped through two big peach orchards in the Fort Valley section late yesterday, causing heavy loss to fruit. The same storm also struck orchards in the Crest community, near Thomson, about the same hour, according to reports received here today.

In addition there was considerable damage in southwest Georgia, according to reports from Bainbridge.

The Fort Valley section fruit was blown from trees or pecked by hail-stormers in the orchard of John Pierson, at Lee Pope, Ga., which is north of Fort Valley.

The same storm struck the farm of Walter Pierson, Fort Valley, brother of John Pierson, causing similar damage.

The Piersons are among the largest peach growers in middle Georgia, having all varieties of peaches.

While both growers suffered heavy damage their crops will not be a complete loss, it was learned today after a survey was made.

Other farm crops in Peach county were damaged by the hail. Some damage also was done to buildings and a few trees were blown down. No one was hurt in the Fort Valley section.

AGREEMENT TO END STRIKE AT DALTON
WASHINGTON, May 23.—(P)—An agreement providing for the termination of strikes at the Real Silk Hosiery mills in Indianapolis and Dalton, Ga., was reached here today by conferees, who also agreed that the Employees' Mutual Benefit Association pass promptly on all employment applications either by groups or individuals.

The national labor board said the settlement would become final when approved by both strikers and company officials.

Persons accepted by the Mutual Benefit Association would be reinstated as soon as work is available. Although strikers found guilty of committing actual violence would not be eligible for this provision. Questions caused by the reinstatement clause would be submitted to the national labor board.

The terms of the agreement for the Dalton plant also provides that the board hold a conference in the near future with the management to negotiate with an elected committee.

Carson Beck, president of Local 74 at Dalton, was among those present at the conference.

FUNERAL IN ATLANTA FOR MRS. M. W. MEGAHAY
THOMSON, Ga., May 23.—Mrs. Mattie Watson Megahay, 72, died at the Thomson hospital here Tuesday afternoon after an illness of three days. ## Lumpkin County Taxes 99.50 Per Cent Paid

DAHLONGA, Ga., May 23.—W. Y. Grindle, county tax commissioner, has made final settlement for taxes collected for Lumpkin county for 1933, which shows total tax of $238,860, making a collection record of 99.50 per cent of total due the county.

About 14 years ago Lumpkin county changed a commission form management when the county was in debt and behind with current expenses.

The commissioners adopted the "pay-as-you-go" policy and by sticking to it, Chairman John H. Moore, who has been chairman since 1919, has been running the county and paying cash for all accounts each month for ten years and has sufficient cash on hand now to take care of normal expenses for another 12 months.

BARNESVILLE COLLEGE EXERCISES OPEN TODAY
BARNESVILLE, Ga., May 23.—Commencement exercises will begin at Gordon College Thursday afternoon, May 24, with a recital by the music and expression departments of the grammar school, under the direction of Miss Orville Tyler and Mrs. C. M. Dunn. At night the kindergarten exercises will be held. Friday afternoon the music and expression departments of the high school under the direction of Miss Marion Bush and Miss Orville Tyler, will present their recital; in the evening, the grammar school play will be given by the students.

Sunday morning Dr. Ryland Knight, pastor of the Second-Pence de Leon church of Atlanta, will preach the sermon, and a band concert will be given at 4 o'clock with Ray Smith directing. Monday the sophomore reading and declamation contests will be staged, the competitive drill will be held, and the presentation of the class play, "Price Tag," will be given. Tuesday night the closing event will be given when Dr. Phillip Welter, chancellor of the University System, will deliver the literary address. Monday the sophomore reading and declamation contests will be staged, the competitive drill will be held, and the presentation of the class play, "Price Tag," will be given.

State Deaths And Funerals

JUDGE H. G. LEWIS.
BILLOM, Ga., May 23.—Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon for Judge H. G. Lewis at the family home ground near here.

Within a month of his 85th anniversary Judge Lewis died after a short illness Monday afternoon. He was born in Georgia and was the sole surviving member of his immediate family. Mrs. Sophie L. Hill, of Washington, was his widow. He was survived by three grandsons, one son, Mrs. Mary E. Lewis, of where his two sisters married the late J. DuBois Hill.

T. L. DREWRY.
GRiffin, Ga., May 23.—Funeral services for T. L. Drewry, 67-year-old contractor of Grifone, Ga., who died at his home here Sunday, were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of his wife, Mrs. T. L. Drewry, of Grifone, Ga. The Rev. J. B. Turner, pastor of the First Baptist church here, officiated. Interment was in the cemetery.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Drewry, he was survived by two sons, Lucius Drewry, of Miami, Fla., and Earl Drewry, of New York, and three sisters, Mrs. J. C. Parfitt, of Canula, for entertainment at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The funeral for Mrs. Celia Mobley, her sister, will take place at the same cemetery at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

CUT IN JUTE LEVY HIT BY ANDERSON

Textile Body Head Asails Proposal as Unfair to South.

MACON, Ga., May 23.—(P)—W. D. Anderson, president of the American Cotton Manufacturers Association, today appealed to southern congressmen to oppose a reduction of the tax on jute and called for a community of interest between farmers of the south and the west.

Anderson reviewed the processing tax of 4.2 cents a pound on cotton which he said meant $21,000 a bale, and a compensating tax of 2.9 cents a pound on the first processing of jute into bags and a like amount on the processing of jute yarn into certain twines.

He said soon after the processing tax on jute was established by the department of agriculture, Senator Borah "launched a tirade" against the tax on behalf of the potato growers of the west and that the "jute people are again pressing a movement to have the tax either eliminated or reduced."

In order to give some measure of protection to cotton growers, Anderson said, it might cost the farmers of the west slightly more to sack their potatoes, wheat and other grains but the south would repay the increased cost in purchases and the buying public would pay the bill generally, just as it is paying the processing tax on cotton.

He contended Borah's attack represented the "touchy attitude of some of our friends in the west" who overlook the fact that in attacking cotton they are making an attack on not only on the chief money crop of the south but on the crop which is the chief export crop of the United States.

"There should be more of a community of interest between the farmers of the south and the farmers of the middle west and west," Anderson asked the southern congressmen to write to the department of agriculture and express disapproval of any decrease in the jute tax.

The American Cotton Manufacturers Association is composed of mills in the south where 84 per cent of the nation's cotton is spun.

Two Georgians, Sisters, Die During Same Hour
MACON, Ga., May 23.—(P)—Two sisters in Georgia, residing 150 miles apart, died last night at the same hour, relatives discovered today.

Mrs. Belle Hurst, widow of H. L. Hurst, died at the home of her son, Robert Floyd Hurst, in this city at 7:40 p. m. after a long illness.

Her sister, Mrs. Celia Mobley, died at the same hour at her home in Whigham, Ga.

Another sister, Mrs. Charles Mobley, resides at Cairo, Ga.

The body of Mrs. Hurst will be taken to the old family cemetery at Branchville, Ga., 12 miles from Cairo, for entombment at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The funeral for Mrs. Celia Mobley, her sister, will take place at the same cemetery at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

Club Federation Indorses Stricter Pure Food Laws

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 23.—(AP)—The general purpose and principle of the Copeland bill, now before congress and designed to extend the scope of drug and food laws, was unanimously indorsed today by the council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in convention here.

The resolution was presented to the council after Senator Copeland had sent a message to the convention stating that "with your help we can pass this measure."

The resolution, the first to be passed at the convention, and the indorsement of the home makers' forum, the department of public welfare and the divisions of industry and public health of the organization.

The Copeland bill, designated as senate bill 2800 would preserve features of the present regulations governing prevention of misbranding of foods and drugs and prevention of adulteration but it would extend the feature to include cosmetics and regulate advertising.

Birth control was argued pro and con before the council with supporters urging new laws governing dissemination of literature on the subject and opponents suggesting that it be placed solely in the hands of the medical profession.

Dr. Charles Francis Potter, of New York, champion of birth control who substituted on the program for Mrs. Margaret Sanger, told the council that pending legislation for the control of birth control information was "a moral activism surviving from a previous era," and should be "relegated to the Bronx zoo with the dragon lizard."

The opposite stand was taken by Dr. Theodore H. Aschman, Kansas City physician, who argued that the medical profession should be responsible for birth control, adding that "efforts to allow free access of contraceptive literature and materials to the mails and common carriers should be discouraged because of the demoralizing effect upon youth."

Carrying the discussion to the floor of the convention in the first open debate on a controversial subject, Dr. Potter urged that the subject be included in the program of study for all clubs, while Dr. Aschman declared that "theoretically, birth control should be accomplished much, but practically it does not."

The council also passed unanimously a resolution placing the general federation on record as opposing the return of saloons and recommending temperance instruction be emphasized in the public schools.

Taking cognizance of opposition developed in Washington to a measure regulating sale and possession of firearms, an emergency resolution which, if passed, would demand that congress immediately pass the measure as a protection "to lives and homes" was introduced today.

Mrs. Arch Trawick, of Tennessee, was the author of the resolution, presented by Mrs. William D. Spoor, Port Chester, N. Y., chairman of resolution.

Action on the resolution was deferred until tomorrow, in order that further study might be made of it, and because of the address tonight on crime control by Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney-general.

Birth control held the convention spotlight today as the first controversial subject ever to be brought upon the federation's floor for open discussion.

Supporting the movement as a substitute for Mrs. Margaret Sanger, national exponent of dissemination of birth control information, Dr. Charles Francis Potter, of New York, declared that present legislation relative to birth control should be "relegated to the Bronx zoo with the dragon lizard," and urged that the subject be included in the program of study for all clubs.

The Comstock law, regulatory act governing birth control information, is "a moral activism surviving from a previous era," he declared.

Dr. Theodore H. Aschman, of Kansas City, opponent of the movement, assumed the attitude in his address that any movement of the sort should be under control of the medical profession.

Lippman Lecture Will Aid Fund For Junior League Hospital Work

The extensive welfare work carried on by members of the Atlanta Junior League will be aided by the address which Walter Lippmann, noted author and editor, will deliver in Atlanta at Wesley Memorial auditorium next Monday night. His subject will be "This Year of Crisis."

Entire proceeds from the nominal admission charge of 75, 50 and 25 cents, will go to the Junior League welfare fund. Tickets may be procured at Lenox Park, in Rich's; Iris Lee, Davison-Paxon's, or through any member of the Junior League.

An outstanding piece of welfare work carried on by the league is its support of the children's ward of the Henrietta Eggleston Memorial hospital. In addition to this financial aid, the members of the league do office work at the hospital, make bandages and perform other duties.

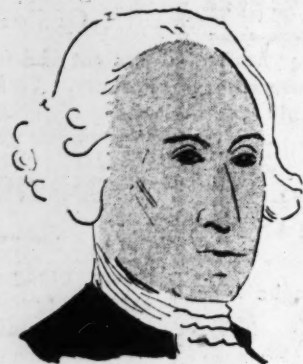

The young women in this organization also assist in the activities of the Family Welfare Society, the Child Welfare Society and the Osgood Sanders Kindergarten.

Mr. Lippmann will receive an honorary degree from Oglethorpe University on Sunday night and the address on Monday night will be the first that this leader of liberal thought has delivered in the south. Mr. Lippmann was editor of the New York World until 1931, and since that time his editorials have been published in the New York Herald Tribune and syndicated to other newspapers.

DEMOCRATS BACK TRADE AGREEMENT

Leaders Refuse To Demand Copy of Tariff Pact With Colombia.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP)—Democratic leaders refused today to accept a resolution demanding that the state department submit to the senate a copy of a trade agreement which republicans said was negotiated with Colombia in anticipation of passage of the tariff bargaining bill.

In a long speech against the tariff measure, Senator Hatfield, republican, West Virginia, offered the resolution and said he had reason to believe the agreement was negotiated "to protect American petroleum and fruit interests with large holdings in Colombia."

Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, suggested that Hatfield press for immediate consideration of his resolution, but Democratic Leader Robinson said he could not consent to it.

"It seems improper to me," he asserted, adding he understood the republicans were referring to a treaty in the process of negotiation and seeking its submission before it was concluded.

Vandenberg referred to a state department announcement last December saying the treaty was a reciprocal trade agreement entered into in anticipation of the tariff bill's passage.

Vandenberg referred to a state department announcement last December saying the treaty was a reciprocal trade agreement entered into in anticipation of the tariff bill's passage.

He said he understood the republicans were referring to a treaty in the process of negotiation and seeking its submission before it was concluded.

Georgia Fields And Streams

By H. A. Carter.

He caught a Hyla. Or did the Hyla catch him?
P. W. Fattig, curator of the Emory Museum and librarian of the Georgia Society of Naturalists, says that he was driving to Cedartown the other night and that just as he got out of Dallas going north something struck his windshield.

He thought it was a leaf, but his companion insisted that whatever it was had moved of its own volition. Whereupon Fattig stopped the car and found the Hyla sitting on his windshield.

I explained this to Mr. Fattig by saying that the Hyla realized he was a friend of mine and wanting to get in touch with me, decided to try hitch-hiking. Certainly the little beast did not fall; if you have ever felt the great tension exerted by the suction disks on the toes of the Hylas, you cannot imagine one falling from any perch.

The specimen is not full grown, but it is typical in coloration. The back is lichen gray (I have often wondered what relationship my idea of lichen gray has to William Beebe's "elephant's breath") with an irregular pattern of darker gray, like the tones of fine steel etching. On the shanks of the hind legs are the only patches of brilliant color on the little fellow: rows of bright orange-yellow which are concealed when the legs are drawn up in normal position.

To read those words is to fall far short of the evanescent tones of gray that march across the back of my frogling, for he is an expert in metachrosis. And let me hasten on to explain that metachrosis is simply the power and ability to change colors. I have seen these frogs almost sooty in appearance, and others that were almost chalky white. Between these two extremes are the delicate grays that we often dream about but never can quite name.

This species (Hyla versicolor (LeConte)) is commonly known as the tree toad. It is a bit more toad-like in appearance than the degenerate members of the family such as the familiar cricket frog (By the way, the night skies ring with their reverberating rattles in the marshes these nights. Drive that hantle on some night to Peachtree creek and listen to them.) For all its toad-like appearance, however, it is truly a tree-frog of the family Hylidae.

Did you know that this species is quite reliable as a weather prophet? Their sensitive skins can tell of an approaching storm, the sensation being related to their voices. This fact is responsible for the name "rain-frog" sometimes given them.

WILLIAM H. REES, 70, SUCCUMBS IN MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., May 23.—(AP)—William H. Rees, 70, retired Philadelphia showman who came here seven months ago, died Tuesday night in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Addie Friel, after a long illness.

Among the survivors are the widow, Mrs. Mabel B. Rees, and three daughters, Mrs. Friel and Mrs. May Friel, both of Miami, and Mrs. Pearl Gantner, of Philadelphia.

Editorial Trophy

Picture of the editorial trophy which Jim Williams, editor of the Greensboro Herald-Journal, will award for the best editorial appearing during the past year in a Georgia weekly.

The award will take place at the meeting of the Georgia Press Association at Savannah on June 29. The trophy is now being shown at Maier & Berke's jewelry store.

NEW YORKERS CHOOSE

the Hotel New Yorker—

and that means something!

IT'S significant how many dyed-in-the-wool New Yorkers come "home" to the Hotel New Yorker—live here permanently. Perhaps they choose this hotel just because it's new and metropolitan and convenient. Or because the rooms are luxurious, yet low-priced. Or because the food, from a bite to a banquet, is so smacking good in all four restaurants. But more than likely it's a combination of all these—as you'll discover for yourself. Just say "Hotel New Yorker" to the porter when you get off the train; we've a private tunnel direct from the Pennsylvania Station, where all trains from the South arrive.

2,500 rooms, each with radio, tub and shower bath, servitor and running ice water, many for as little as $3 a day.

NEWSPRINT PLANT FAVORED IN SOUTH

S. N. P. A. Also Seeks $20,000 Campaign To Advertise Dixie.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., May 23.—(P) The Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association today adopted a resolution favoring establishment of a newsprint plant in the south by private enterprise and directing its president, E. K. Gaylord, of the Oklahoma City Oklahoman and Times, to name a committee to "take steps for the accomplishment of this plan."

The committee to be named by Gaylord was given authority to approach publishers to assure consumption for the proposed plant's output.

The words "private enterprise" were inserted in the resolution after it reached the convention floor upon motion of Emanuel Levi, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, who said he could not support any move to put the government in competition with private enterprise. It was pointed out that the amendment would not preclude the government aiding in financing a private concern.

Clark Howell Sr., of The Atlanta Constitution, told of the success attained by Dr. Charles H. Herty in producing satisfactory pine in experiments conducted at Savannah.

The principal other action taken at the convention's closing session was to lay tentative plans for a $20,000 campaign to advertise the south and its resources.

The advertising campaign will be carried out if the fund is raised by voluntary contributions. The resolution favoring it suggested that the publishers contribute on the basis of $10 for each 1,000 circulation of their newspapers.

Details of the plan, the copy and media, were left to a committee. The association empowered the board of directors to select next year's convention city at their midwinter meeting.

Appointment of Cranston Williams, of Chattanooga, secretary-manager of the association, as a member of the newspaper code authority was ratified.

U. S. Marshal Here To Be Named Soon

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia, is expected to make a definite announcement this week of his choice for a United States marshal in the northern district of the state to succeed Marshal L. H. Crawford, whose term expires next month.

While a number of names have been suggested for the important patronage post, the junior senator thus far has failed to indicate whom he will select for the office.

Marshal Crawford, a republican, is not an applicant to succeed himself. He has served since the beginning of the Harding administration.

Both A. Steve Nance, prominent in Atlanta labor circles, and former Adjutant General Charles Cox, of Atlanta, have been mentioned for the office but it would not be surprising to see the nomination go to some one outside of Fulton county.

GERMAN-AMERICAN GARDEN WILL OPEN ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Governor Eugene Talmadge will be guest speaker at a dinner marking the annual garden-opening festival of the Atlanta German-American Club at 6:30 o'clock Saturday night at the clubrooms, 80 Fourteenth street, N. E. Robert Hecht, director, announced Wednesday.

In addition to the governor, other honored guests will be Mayor James L. Key and J. A. Doherty, German consul at Charleston, S. C.

Following an "old-fashioned Dutch supper," the night's program will include vocal and instrumental German folk songs by Miss Minna Hecker and an orchestra under the direction of Karl Pathe. A group of dances, directed by Mrs. Sarah Wagstaff Rogers, will also be given.

A dance on the open air terrace will bring the festival to a close.

Chase Adams, Pittsburgh, Pa.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE IN HIS STOMACH

A swallow of Placidan, the new 2-way antacid. In 5 minutes distress is relieved.

That burning and the sour substance rising in your throat... "hat belching"... often come from excessive acidity. Your stomach is not always able to take care of the foods that you like the best. To take care of the foods that are rich and full of the minerals, proteins, vitamins, and carbohydrates you need.

Instead of going on like that, help your stomach by taking Placidan. It's a new combination of four antacids that sweeten the stomach, aid in relieving excessive acidity.

You can get Placidan at all drug stores. From now on, eat what you like, without worrying too much over distressing after-effects. A swallow of Placidan which tastes like a pleasant drink will relieve acid indigestion.

New Government Not Fascist, Declares Premier of Bulgaria

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 23.—(AP)—The regime set up in Bulgaria by last Saturday's coup d'état is "first of all, a Bulgarian government," and cannot properly be called fascist, Premier Kimon Gueorgieff declared in an interview today.

"It is adapted to the particular needs of this country, and is not patterned on any foreign model," he declared, and its trend is "neither to the right nor the left, but straight through the middle."

The status of King Boris, the premier said emphatically, will not be changed under the government which the king put into effect by decree after the army seized public buildings.

The premier, a lieutenant colonel of reserves, has nothing of the appearance of a dictator. He is of medium height, slightly bald, and wears spectacles. His manner is friendly, and his voice soft.

"It is our desire to establish the friendliest relations with our neighbor Yugoslavia," he said in objecting to a description of his regime as a swing away from Italy and toward Yugoslavia, "but not only with Yugoslavia, with all nations, Italy included."

As to the Macedonians, among whom a movement for autonomy has stirred up considerable trouble, the premier said that "they will be treated on a basis of equality with other nationalities in Bulgaria."

"The Macedonian societies," he said, "in so far as they are benevolent, or co-operative societies, will not be disturbed. But in the future they must stay out of politics."

The question of whether to abolish political parties is "being studied, but has not been decided," the premier said.

GEORGIA'S DEATH RATE IS LOWEST IN HISTORY

Abercrombie Tells Health Board 1933 Rate Was 10.3 Per 1,000 Population.

Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, state director of public health, told the annual meeting of the board of directors Wednesday that Georgia's death rate in 1933 was 10.3 per one thousand population, the lowest death rate ever recorded in the state.

This low rate was recorded despite the fact that the year 1933 was ushered in with an influenza epidemic and ended with an epidemic of pneumonia and measles, with whooping cough showing almost twice as many deaths as the previous year.

Dr. Abercrombie reported that great gains had been made in the treatment of typhoid fever, tuberculosis and maternity deaths.

The typhoid death rate was placed at 8.3 per one thousand population for the year, the lowest rate ever recorded in Georgia. The tuberculosis death rate was 59.4 per one thousand population, which was the lowest since the establishment of the bureau of vital statistics in the state.

Dr. Abercrombie reported a decided downward trend in the tuberculosis death rate during the last 14 years.

The maternal death rate, he said, showed a decrease of 21 per cent during the year. The rate was 9.7 per one thousand population in 1932 and 7.7 last year.

Diseases of the heart showed a decrease of 3 per cent over 1932. The death rates from cancer, suicides and homicides for the year 1932 showed increases.

The public health director said the cancer-death increases were because of better diagnoses and that increases in the death rate from suicides and homicides may be expected during years of economic depression.

The infant death rate under one year of age shows a decrease of 1 per cent, yet the death rate per 1,000 live births shows an increase of 4 per cent, which Dr. Abercrombie said indicated that birth registrations were not up to date.

Following are the members of the state board of health:

BIRTH REGISTRATION MEMORIAL TO HARRIS

Every Family in State Mail- ed Card for Recording Vital Statistics.

As a memorial to the late Senator William J. Harris, the federal bureau of the census, co-operating with the state board of health, Wednesday launched in Georgia one of the most ambitious birth registration campaigns ever undertaken in this country.

Dr. Arthur W. Hedrich, assistant director of the bureau of the census, said in a letter to Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, state director of public health, will be in charge of the drive.

"To Senator Harris, a former director of the census, is due the present high efficiency of birth and death registration throughout the United States," William L. Austin, census director, said in launching the campaign, "and it gives me particular pleasure to institute this campaign as a memorial to this great man."

Cards addressed to every family in the state, have been mailed from Washington to record every birth that has occurred in Georgia during the last 12 months, and when the cards are returned, with the requested data to the state board of health, they will be checked against birth registration records already on file there. In cases where the births are registered, souvenir certificates will be given the parents.

The campaign will close June 30.

LAST TRIBUTE PAID HOOPER ALEXANDER

Hundreds of college mates, fraternity brothers and citizens gathered with members of the bench and bar Wednesday to pay their last respects to Hooper Alexander, who died at his Decatur residence Monday night.

Services were held at the Peachtree chapel of Brandon-Bond-Condor.

Dr. D. P. McGeachy, pastor of the Decatur Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Alexander was a member, officiated and read the burial service.

In tribute to the memory of Mr. Alexander, Fulton county superior courts and the city court of Decatur and Atlanta adjourned.

Mr. Alexander was 75 years of age. Born in Rome, Ga., he attended public schools there and later graduated from the University of Georgia. He served two terms as United States district attorney here and four terms in the state legislature. He was a co-author of the Georgia dry law.

HASTINGS OFFERS CUP FOR TALISMAN ROSE

The new Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt yellow rose and 200 other varieties of roses will be shown Friday and Saturday at the annual Hastings rose show which will be held at the H. G. Hastings Company's quarters, at Mitchell and Broad streets.

The show will be open from 9 to 5 o'clock. The show will offer a competition to rose growers in Georgia for the best single Talisman rose to be shown in separate containers to be supplied by the company. Each exhibitor will be limited to one entry, and it must be in the show between 8 and 10 o'clock Friday.

Judges will be three prominent rose growers, in no way connected with the H. G. Hastings Company, and the blue ribbon winner will be awarded a silver trophy cup. Judging will take place between noon and 2 o'clock and the cup will be presented to the winner Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

On Friday only, from 10:30 to 2:30 o'clock, a garden lighting lecture illustrated by colored stereopticon views will be given by Mrs. Florence Rush, of Cleveland, in co-operation with the Georgia Power Company.

MURPHY JUNIOR HIGH TO GIVE CERTIFICATES

Approximately 175 students of the J. C. Murphy Junior High school will receive certificates of promotion to Senior High schools at exercises to be held at 11 o'clock the morning of May 31 at the Murphy school auditorium, it was announced Wednesday.

The promotion day program in line with a series of monthly meetings held under auspices of the P. T. A. to explain the purposes of the school to the public, will also include several student talks designed to show relation between the school and future life, with emphasis on the New Deal. The speakers will be John Barron, Verna Byrce, Edith Thebaut, Albert Cunningham and Reba Louise French.

During the exercises H. O. Burgess, principal of the school, will deliver awards for the best all-around senior student, for journalism and for senior declamation. Among the special honorees to be given are the American Legion medals and the Ritter music medal.

Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, with Mrs. Z. V. Peterson and George C. Gardner, of the board of education, will participate in the program.

PROMOTION MANAGER TO ADDRESS AD MEN

J. W. Brooks, sales promotion manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, will be the guest speaker at today's luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Advertising Club at Rich's tea room.

Mr. Brooks' subject will be "Building Sales by Direct Mail Advertising." The luncheon will begin at 12:30 o'clock.

Air Concern To Split Into 3 Corporations

CHICAGO, May 23.—(AP)—P. G. Johnson, president of the United Aircraft and Transport Corporation, today announced plans for dissolution of the concern and division of its properties among three new corporations as a reorganization move which he said appears to be essential in view of the government's expressed attitude.

In a statement to stockholders Johnson outlined a plan which provided for segregation of the transport business in one concern, formation of a corporation to handle the eastern manufacturing activities in another, and inclusion of western manufacturing activities in a third.

The new transport corporation will be formed under the laws of Delaware to be known as the United Air Lines Transport Corporation with an authorized 1,200,000 shares of $5 par value stock.

WAGE EARNERS' ROLE IN RECOVERY PRAISED

Frances Perkins, in Book, Declares Worker Must Share in Profits.

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP)—Wage earners must receive "a significant proportion" of the income of industry "if recovery is to be achieved and maintained," says Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, in her book, "People at Work," to be published tomorrow.

"The industrial recovery act is an economic device made necessary by the attempt to maintain a modern superstructure of industrial high-speed mass production on an inadequate foundation of employment and purchasing power," Miss Perkins says.

"This is the heart of the recovery movement—purchasing power must be restored to the groups longest and most completely without in order to create a demand for goods."

"If in a given industry the hours are not short enough to reabsorb all of the wage workers, then further reduction must be considered. But by keeping always the idea of balance, so that the cost of producing an article will not be so high as to put it beyond the reach of other wage-earners who need it and desire it, mass production and mass market will supplement each other."

"This may be difficult to accomplish," Secretary Perkins says, "and will have to be done in several steps. That it can be done to the steel industry is evident from the declining share of the value of the products that went to labor in that industry during the prosperous years prior to 1929."

Secretary Perkins' book sketches a philosophy of labor from early times, and she touches on most current problems. Old age pensions and unemployment insurance are viewed favorably.

"We have in this country no adequate federal administrative machinery for registering the unemployed or for recording their passage from one job to another," she writes.

In recalling "boom days," Miss Perkins says "the money that went into 'bonuses' and 'melon cutting' might more profitably have gone into pay rolls, particularly in the lowest levels, there to be produced and maintained a market."

POPE PIUS VISITS VILLA HE WILL USE AS SUMMER HOME

VATICAN CITY, May 23.—(AP)—Pope Pius left the Vatican today, inspected the papal villa Castel Gandolfo, and returned here at noon.

He was accompanied by the master of ceremonies, Mgr. Caccia Dominioni, and the papal court. The party occupied four automobiles.

Today's visit was merely an inspection, preliminary to the pope occupying the villa for the summer while his apartments are remodeled.

The villa is situated in the Alban hills, 17 miles out the ancient Appian way. It was the first time his holiness had left Vatican City since the holy year closed April 2, and it was his third trip to the villa since he became pope.

Last summer he visited it twice on similarly short inspection tours.

His strenuous holy year duties now over, Pope Pius has accepted the advice of his doctors to get away from the sultry atmosphere of Vatican City during the hot months.

PHILHARMONIC CHORUS WILL PRESENT 'ELIJAH'

Mendelssohn's Oratorio To Be Sung Sunday at First Baptist Church.

"Elijah," Mendelssohn's great oratorio which ranks as one of the most works in the realm of religious music, will be presented at 2:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the First Baptist church by the Atlanta Philharmonic chorus, sixty-five voices, including many of the most prominent soloists in the city, will be heard in this performance.

Mendelssohn started composing the music for "Elijah" about a century ago, though it was not until 1847, in Birmingham, England, that it was first produced. With the composer as the director, the oratorio was an immediate success. In its score are included several beautiful and famous arias.

"It is Not His Word Like a Fire," Elijah's stirring description of the Lord's destruction of the prophets of Baal; "It is enough," Elijah's plea to the Lord that his life be taken; "If with all your hearts ye truly seek me," tenor solo; "Hear ye, Israel," famous soprano aria; and the magnificent chorus, "Thanks be to God."

Professor L. G. Nilson, superintendent of music in the Atlanta public schools, is director of the Philharmonic chorus. Dr. Charles Sheldon Jr. will be the soloist for the oratorio.

Richard Holzman, baritone; Mrs. E. Raymond Johnson, soprano; Miss Lena Mae Fairman, contralto; and James Calhoun, tenor.

U. S. SILVER PROGRAM BLASTS BRITISH HOPES

LONDON, May 23.—(AP)—British financial leaders today as being highly alarmed by the prospect that President Roosevelt's silver monetization program will blast their hopes for the return of Great Britain to the gold standard in the near future.

Despite the nonchalant attitude they assumed toward the American president's message, financial circles were pictured as being thrown into gloom.

"Financial leaders here have been hoping for some time that President Roosevelt would head off the silverites, so there would be no further steps in the direction of world-wide bimetalism," said a well-informed observer.

"Roosevelt's capitulation to the silverites will only give new impetus to the two-base currency movement, which the British distinctly do not want. If bimetalism becomes popular it may be 'good bye forever' to the gold standard."

At least it tends to forestall the hopes and plans of Great Britain for return to the gold basis at any time in the near future.

The informant declared that Britain has little interest in silver since India is far less a factor in the white metal than five years ago and China is far more important.

In government quarters little support was shown for the proposal to invoke a world conference for the rehabilitation of silver.

Paraguayans' Defeat Claimed by Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia, May 23.—(AP)—The high command of the Bolivian army tonight announced that a strong force of Paraguayans had been defeated and scattered in the Canada sector of the Chaco front.

Numerous prisoners were taken. It was announced, and sirens in this city were blowing lustily as the populace rejoiced.

The pitched battle in the Canada sector, the announcement stated, had been under way since May 19.

"Our troops vigorously attacked divisions of the enemy's first corps, whereof two, the second and seventh, were scattered and forced to flee into the mountains," the high command's communique said. "Numerous casualties were inflicted on the enemy. More than 100 prisoners have been taken so far, besides numerous officials."

Accompanied by a maid and a lawyer, the much married platinum blonde was called to testify she had not authorized any officer of the bank to charge her account $34,375 in April 1932, for the purchase of Harriman bank stock.

Air Advisory Group Seeks Speed Data

LANGLEY FIELD, Va., May 23.—(AP)—The national advisory committee for aeronautics wants to know what an airplane would do at a speed of 500 miles per hour, and find the answer to this question it contemplates a new $300,000 tunnel at its research laboratories at Langley Field.

"We shall go ahead with the project as soon as the money is available," said Dr. Joseph S. Ames, president of Johns Hopkins University, and chairman of the NACA at its conclusion of the ninth annual aircraft engineering conference at the committee's plant here today. "We hope to get the necessary funds in the next batch of public works administration money," he added.

"PYRE" SLAYER GIVEN SENTENCE OF 10 YEARS

LUCEDALE, Miss., May 23.—(AP)—P. L. Cimino, 72, "pyre" slayer of J. Edgar Adkins, 33, today was sentenced to 10 years in the state penitentiary after he entered a plea of guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter in the case.

Cimino was indicted Monday for murder, and had entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned. He claimed self-defense in the killing of Adkins, a World War veteran, whose body he admitted burning last March at the edge of a swamp near the home occupied by both men at Maudyella, George county.

Hospital for Crippled Children Gets $8,120 From Sunday Movies

Sunday movies have profited the Scottish Rite hospital for Crippled Children to the extent of $8,120.50 since seven-day operation of Atlanta's theaters was begun last winter, while eight Atlanta charities and the Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross have been recipients of $800 from four Sunday baseball games played at Ponce de Leon ball park, it was revealed Wednesday.

In addition to these sums, there is a reserve of approximately $1,000, received from the Sunday baseball games, which is being held until the end of the season, when it will be divided among the eight participating charities.

Figures on the Scottish Rite hospital receipts from Sunday movies were revealed by J. W. Setze Jr., financial secretary of the hospital and trustee in charge of the Sunday movies.

The hospital is averaging about $1,500 a month from the theaters, Mr. Setze stated. When Sunday movies were inaugurated, the theaters themselves operated the shows, but since February 18, the theater operation has been directly in the hands of the hospital. Under this plan the trustee collects all receipts, pays out the necessary money for expenses and turns the net profits into the hospital fund.

"We average $330 a Sunday in net profits," Mr. Setze said.

Under the Sunday baseball plan, the baseball company guarantees a minimum of $200 a game. This sum, according to Everett G. Jackson, executive vice president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor for the Sunday games, is divided equally each

HERO OF AIR KILLED WHEN PLANE CRASHES

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—(AP)—The pilot of an airplane which crashed with the loss of three lives here last night, was disclosed today as the hero of another aerial accident in which he was credited with saving several lives.

Victims of the crash here were Kenneth P. Gardner, 25, second lieutenant in the air corps reserve; Ruth H. Converse, 21, daughter of William L. Converse, treasurer of a large retail drug company, and Robert C. Sitman Jr., 23, Los Angeles. The ship fell from an altitude of 1,000 feet and burst into flames.

Gardner formerly was with the air corps at March field, Riverside, Cal., and during his service a bombing plane which he was piloting caught fire. He continued to fly the craft until several enlisted men leaped to safety with parachutes and then abandoned the craft himself.

ROOSEVELT TO ASK WATERWAYS BILL

New Policy Will Be Sent to Congress in Form of Message.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP)—The report of a cabinet committee which reached the conclusion that a new waterways policy should be adopted.

ed to remove the "pork barrel" from rivers and harbors projects, is to be sent to congress soon by President Roosevelt in the form of a message.

That, however, is only one phase of the study by Secretaries Wallace, Ickes, Dern and Perkins, who reviewed the nation's river needs with an eye to virtually all phases of water use.

The report, the president indicated today, is general in its terms and legislation is not expected at this session. Some members of congress said the chief executive probably would advocate a further study with a view to action in the next congress.

Included in the report will be general recommendations dealing with flood control, soil erosion, marginal lands, reforestation and other problems related to water use.

So closely, however, are these factors connected to the general question of land utilization that a further study apparently has been decided upon by the administration before attempting to take decisive action.

That political pressure has often overridden good judgment in the allotment of rivers and harbors projects has long been admitted both on and off of Capitol Hill.

But the report is not expected to go beyond a general criticism of past policies and broad recommendations for the future.

EARLY VOTE SEEN ON ARMS EMBARGO

House, Senate Body Favor F. D. R. Request To Halt Chaco Ammunition

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's request for authority to stop the sale of arms and munitions intended for the battleground of the Gran Chaco received expedient treatment today from a congress emphatically in favor of the proposal.

The house unanimously adopted a resolution empowering the chief executive to take such action as a means of ending the destructive and disastrous war between Bolivia and Paraguay that has raged on the plains and in the jungles of the South American interior.

Almost simultaneously, the senate foreign relations committee approved a similar resolution, and Chairman Pittman made plans for obtaining senate approval as soon as debate on the NRA and the tariff bill would permit him to call the measure up for action.

Under the leadership of Chairman McReynolds, of the house foreign affairs committee, the resolution was put through in 20 minutes. A single objection would have delayed passage but it was not forthcoming.

BARROW AND MOLL DIE IN POLICE TRAP

were at Black Lake, a hideout we had been watching for weeks.

Waited for Days. Fred Hamer, former captain of the Texas rangers, who had been waiting in the brush for days for Barrow to come by on his regular run, added: "Clyde and Bonnie did not get to fire a shot. Their car was full of guns and ammunition, but they did not get a chance to use them."

Barrow had been lured into northwest Louisiana, through arrangement with officers, for what he thought was a rendezvous with an underworld friend, near Ringgold.

A relative of an escaped convict and former member of Barrow's southwest gang, working with the authorities, had promised him protection at his home.

As officers fired, Barrow opened a door of his small gray sedan and attempted to raise his gun. So did Bonnie Parker, but both were shot before they could pull the trigger.

In the wrecked car were three army rifles, two sawed-off shotguns, a dozen pistols and large quantities of ammunition, besides Bonnie Parker's machine gun. The bodies were left temporarily in the automobile awaiting the coroner's arrival.

With Hamer and Hinton in the ambush near here were B. M. Gault, highway patrolman; Bob Alcorn, of Dallas county, Texas, and Louisiana officers. Sheriff Jordan, of Bienville parish, said he had received a tip that the First National Bank of Arcadia, was to be robbed on Wednesday or Thursday and immediately had notified Texas officers.

Barrow came from Benton, La., yesterday afternoon and passed through Gibland, La., about 4 o'clock and again this morning, Jordan said. Jordan and his deputy, Paul M. Oakley, were waiting at the top of the hill with the Texans.

Mother Cries. In Dallas, Mrs. Henry Barrow, mother of Barrow, cried in anguish. "And, I prayed only last night," she sobbed, "that I might see him alive again, just once more."

Barrow's father, working at his filling station, west of Dallas, made only one remark. He said he guessed his wife would be going to Louisiana.

Bonnie Parker's mother, Mrs. Emma Parker, also a resident of Dallas, fainted when informed by telephone of her daughter's death.

Bit by life, Hamer, one of the best known peace officers in Texas, and his aides had pieced together a map of the highways Barrow was in the habit of using. Several weeks ago they barely missed the outlaw and his companion in this same section.

"Since then, the officers had been 'sitting and waiting'." Barrow, whose custom was to shoot on the drop of a hat and to escape in high-powered automobiles, was wanted in several states for charges ranging from small thefts to murder. He was accused of killing a dozen men, most of them officers.

Bonnie Parker, wife of a convict, was charged by officers with having taken an active part in most of Barrow's crimes. She, too, was known as a vain and boastful.

Several times she was photographed with her belt weighed down with pistols.

The couple's life became more and more hurried of late as the law gradually closed in around them. Daring out of an isolated retreat on Clyde street, they would drive at furious speed to some other rendezvous—sometimes several hundred miles away—leaving only a few hours, they would dash on again.

Bonnie Parker was believed to have been with Barrow and his brother, Marvin, when a posse cornered the gang near Dexter, Iowa, July 24, 1933. Marvin was killed but Clyde and Bonnie Parker escaped.

TWELVE SLAYINGS BLAMED TO BARROW AND GANG

DALLAS, Texas, May 23.—(UP)—Twelve slayings were blamed on Clyde Barrow and members of his gang during the last two years as they blazed a bloody trail from the Gulf of Mexico to Iowa.

Deaths of Barrow and Bonnie Parker today left but one member of the outlaw band still at liberty. He was Henry McVey, one of five convicts liberated from the Texas penitentiary last January when a prison guard was slain.

Clyde's brother, Marvin (Buck) Barrow, was fatally shot by officers near Dexter, Iowa. Buck Barrow's widow is serving a 10-year term in the Missouri penitentiary for assault with intent to kill Raymond Hamilton is in the Texas penitentiary under sentences totaling 362 years.

The Barrow record: 1932: April 30—J. N. Bucher, storekeeper, shot to death in holdup at Hillsboro, Texas.

August 5—Deputy Sheriff E. C. Motter shot to death while attempting to question Barrow and Raymond Hamilton at Atoka, Okla.

October 11—Howard Hall, butcher, shot to death in robbery at Sherman, Texas.

December 23—Doyle Johnson, lumber salesman, shot to death in auto theft at Temple, Texas.

1933: January 7—Deputy Sheriff Malcolm Davis, Fort Worth, shot to death in an attempt to trap Barrow and Bonnie Parker near Joplin, Mo.

April 13—Constable J. W. Harryman and Detective Harry McGinnis shot to death in gun battle with Clyde and Buck Barrow at Joplin, Mo.

June 23—Marshal Henry D. Humphrey shot to death when he started to investigate auto collision near Alma, Ark.

January 16—Major Crowson, prison guard, shot to death during delivery of Raymond Hamilton and four other convicts from prison farm at Eustan, Texas.

April 1—E. B. Wheeler and H. D. Murphy, Texas highway patrolmen, shot to death when they attempted to question couple parked on road near Grapeville, Texas.

April 6—Constable Cal Campbell shot to death when he started to question two men and a woman in mired car near Commerce, Okla.

TWO DILLINGER AIDES LOSING BATTLE WITH LAW

ST. PAUL, May 23.—(AP)—The law won against two more associates of Desperado John Dillinger today, while the outlaw himself roamed free, outside its clutches.

A federal court jury convicted Evelyn Frechette, his sweetheart, and Dr. Clayton May, Minneapolis physician, of conspiracy to hide the fugitive, and sentenced each to a prison term of two years and to pay a fine of $1,000.

Mrs. Beth Green, indicted with the three whose case was concluded today, this afternoon was sentenced to 15 months in prison. She pleaded guilty several days before the trial started.

Miss Frechette and Dr. May were granted a week's stay in execution and their attorneys announced an appeal would be taken to the circuit court of appeals.

The half Indian girl, who was arrested in Chicago after participating with Dillinger in several raids and who said she planned to marry him, heard the decision without show of emotion. She refused to comment.

Dr. May, however, said he was "surprised."

The jury deliberated seven hours. Dr. May and Mrs. Salt admitted on the witness stand during the trial that they had treated the notorious fugitive, but asserted they did so in fear of their lives. Miss Frechette admitted accompanying him in his wanderings and escapades, but testified all her movements were directed by him. Her attorney pleaded that she be sent back to an Indian reservation.

The two women will serve their terms in the women's reformatory at Alderson, W. Va., while Dr. May will be sent to an undesignated federal prison.

NEW ARREST IS MADE IN JUNE ROBBER CASE

TUCSON, Ariz., May 23.—(AP)—A new arrest was made in Tucson police this afternoon in connection with the kidnaping of six-year-old June Robles.

The fingerprints of the man arrested were taken for comparison with prints found on communications from the child's kidnappers and on articles left in the desert prison pit in which she says she spent 10 days.

It was understood he was to be confronted by June, to discover if the little girl could recognize him as one of the three men she has told authorities visited her infrequently while she was buried alive in the desert.

What evidence had led to the pickup of the man, whose identity was not divulged, was not immediately made known.

Joe Newton, bank and train robber, previously had been arrested for investigation in connection with the kidnaping. Authorities said they had been unable to get any statement from him regarding the abduction.

Argument Delayed. JUDGE MORRIS Koenig today in general sessions court adjourned June 5 argument on a motion for a new trial for Thomas Patrick Morris, who is now serving a penitentiary term for his attempt to claim the estate of the late Ella V. Von E. Wendel.

IT'S UP TO THE WOMEN

By Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt

be hard to watch our children go through the same mistakes which we went through, it will do no good to pursue them with warnings drawn from our own experience. All we can do is to be worthy of their confidence and refrain from criticism and recriminations and then in the words of the Scripture we may be "a very present help in time of trouble."

More than this we cannot hope to be. We cannot expect to shape their ideas or in fact to shape the world which they are going to live in. All we can hope to do is to make them feel that they must be honest with themselves and honest with those they care about, living up to what they think is right and remembering always that we are not the judges of what is going to make the world a better place for them to live in. That we must leave to the judgment of the generation that comes after us.

Young married people are probably having the greatest difficulty meeting the situations of today because they are having to adjust themselves to each other, which in itself is a difficult task, and at the same time they are obliged to meet the constant shifting of material conditions.

I have in mind a young couple with two children who were living on a scale of $4,000 to $5,000 a year. The man had a position and all was going well. Suddenly he lost his position. The girl has an income of $1,200 a year which is so far fairly well assured. She is readjusting her life to the scale of $100 a month and he is starting to try to build up a business of his own, such as he was in before with the big company. This is not an easy task and requires from both of them an immense amount of tolerance and of unselfishness, and an understanding of the problem which each of them is facing. This cannot be achieved without a struggle.

It is safe to say that the great majority of people today are living on tropical archipelago Monday night to see her distress signals.

It was through the wireless of the trawler that the outside world was told of the plight of the noted traveler and his bride, who started a 4,200-mile honeymoon voyage in their little honeymoon ketch Svast last June from the Atlantic coast.

The ketch was anchored in Tagus bay of Alentejo island, largest of the archipelago, when Robinson, a Cambridge (Mass.) textile engineer, was stricken. Mrs. Robinson set up a distress signal.

The Santa Cruz responded and wireless back to the mainland with her call for help. The appeal was rushed on to the navy department in Washington while a Los Angeles hospital wireless back to the bride, instructing her to use ice packs and keep her husband as quiet as possible.

Lieutenant Oscar D. Yarbrough, aboard the plane which rushed from the Canal Zone to the Galapagos Islands, is the brother of Mrs. Henry W. Robinson, wife of Captain Robinson, of Fort McPherson, former all-Southern end at Auburn and now end coach for the Georgia Tech football team. Lieutenant Robinson's home is in Auburn, Ala.

Responding to the frantic plea of Robinson's bride, the American navy undertook the race against death this morning. The planes bearing surgical aid hopped from the Canal Zone at 6:40 a. m. and two destroyers, acting as guides for the aircraft, were dispatched.

The navy aircraft carried medical supplies and two physicians, Lieutenant Commander Rolfe V. Hutchinson and Lieutenant Oscar D. Yarbrough, and were in command of Lieutenant Commander Herman H. Halland.

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—(AP)—Roaring across the equator, two navy planes from Coco Solo, Canal Zone, late today completed a 1,000-mile flight to Tagus Cove of the Galapagos islands with medical aid for William Albert Robinson, Chicago millionaire, stricken with appendicitis.

Safe landing of the planes at 3:45 p. m. (Pacific standard time) was reported by the Mackay Radio Corporation here in a message relayed from the lonely equatorial archipelago by a fishing trawler that for two days has been standing by the 32-foot, round-the-world ketch, on which the explorer is confined.

Naval surgeons, who flew from the Canal Zone at dawn this morning, were prepared for an immediate operation.

Since Sunday night, Florence Crane Robinson, Chicago heiress and socialite bride, has maintained vigil by the bunk of her distressed bridegroom in the trawler's interruption of a honeymoon that started last June when the little craft sailed from New York.

INSTALLMENT IV.

"You win. For the last time, I'm going to the Owl. Humble myself to save our standing in this moth-eaten community. I'm going begging for you and for Val, not for myself. After that I'm hiring out—the first job I can get."

"Sandra! My nerves! How can you talk so when you know the state I'm in?"

"As for Val," Sandra continued, "I haven't seen any gilded Romeos dancing on her hook. I wish her luck, though. If her marriage will make you both happy, I'm for it."

Sandra crossed to the chaise longue, dropped a quick kiss on her mother's elaborately coiffed head.

"Don't go into a vapor now, darling. Get the grand total of debts and I'll drop in on the Owl. He can't do more than give me the gate."

Sandra called a cherio and went clattering down the stairs, whistling to drive back the tears. Tears of anger that she had allowed her mother to wheedle from her a promise she had vowed she would not give; tears of revolt against a situation which would force her once more to lower her pride before she sincerely loved and respected—Raoul Reynal.

In the hall below, Sandra paused. She heard voices coming up the walk toward the cottage. Val and—yes, the other was a man's voice. Val's suitor, perhaps. Maybe the one her mother had assured her was about to be hooked. Poor fish! She hoped he was the kind that could absorb plenty of punishment. As future paymaster of Val's extravagances and her mother's ambitions, he'd need to be both rich and reckless.

"Heigh-ho! It was only Gil Akin—come to look for her, Sandra, of course. She hoped Gil had brought along one of his road-burning devil buggies. The wind pressing against her face, whipping through her hair, would blow away the fog that enveloped her on this summer morning. She stepped out onto the veranda.

"Hi!" she called, and noticed that Val caught Gil's arm, directing his attention to a hedge of dahlias. But Gil ignored Val's attempt to divert his attention. He raised his hand above his head in the familiar salute, and came charging toward the veranda.

"Hi, Sandy. Caught up with you again, what? Duck the sea togs, and let's go places!" Not that she cared. Any place would do away from where she was.

"What say Canoe Cove for a snack and a nip?"

"Gorgeous! Mind waiting?"

"I'll wait, but get going."

"Sandra, have you seen mother?" Valerie had come up on the veranda.

and was effectively blocking the door.

"Certainly, darling," Sandra smiled sweetly. Then turned to Gil. "Time out for family conference." She waited for Val to step aside, but Val did not move. What was Val's idea, Sandra wondered. She would have to do something—Gil would think it darn queer.

"Tag, darling, you're it," she called, and pushed Valerie aside.

"Cat!" Val breathed into her ear as she bolted past. There was so much venom in the single word that Sandra turned instinctively in defense.

But Valerie had rejoined Gil, and was summoning a maid to "bring us something cool and wet, we're perishing, absolutely!"

The ride to Canoe Cove was as Sandra hoped it would be—swift, dangerous enough to keep her mind on the road, to crowd out disquieting thoughts.

Gilbert Akin stopped where the road widened toward a bridge spanning an inlet. From a pocket at the side of the car he drew his inevitable flask—quart size.

"Nip?" extending the flask to Sandra.

"No, thanks."

Gil leaned back in amazement. "What's the idea? Why the change in pace?"

"No idea—no change in pace. It tastes like medicine this morning after. She turned away with a grimace. "What you need is a keeper."

"Exactly!" Gil returned the flask to its pocket. His arm slid around her shoulders. "Would you volunteer for the job?"

Sandra thought: Gil is not being facetious—he's asking me, seriously. She pressed her foot against the starter of the car.

A grinding roar. The car shot forward. Gilbert grasped the wheel. "Hey, have a heart!" he shouted. "She was in gear."

"My foot slipped—sorry!" Sandra shouted back in the same tone. "Not yet, but there might have been. Suppose I had been under the car, fighting with the carburetor—or something."

"But you weren't under the car, playing with the carburetor—or something. You were sitting beside me, here, proposing—or something." She observed him out of the corner of her eye.

They were catapulting through space. The car made a sharp turn. Sandra swayed against Gilbert. He bent down. She felt his lips in the tangle of her hair. She laughed. Her head against his shoulder. His arm was around her. Mrs. Gilbert Akin! Why not? An end to haggling over money—over where to exist between flights to this and that place. End of makeshift and mummery.

The car swung up a shell road and under a porte-cochere. Gilbert lifted her bodily from the seat, and she close for a moment before depositing her on the ground.

Sandra was a ripple of joy. "Your coat, Sir Walter, please!" "I see a puddle." He lifted her in his arms again and carried her to a paved walk. "Thank a thoughtful providence for small puddles," he said.

A few minutes later they were enjoying the succulent steamed clams for which Canoe Cove was famous.

"Hi, being caught up would make you go for me like you do those clams," Gilbert said. "I'd hurl myself into the nearest steam room."

Sandra regarded him mischievously. "Anything on your mind beside clams, Gil?"

"I could be sure you are interested, not just curious." He leaned forward, sought her evading eyes. "But I am interested. Careful, though—I might step on the gas again."

"Sandra." His voice was husky. Gil

IX—Sensitive Plants Before and After Shaking.

We do not need to go to Europe to see a sensitive plant, but I happened to see one for the first time when I was in Belgium six years ago. I was visiting an old friend, a professor in a Belgian college of agriculture; and he took me on a trip through a greenhouse used for growing rare plants.

BEFORE

AFTER

it seems strange that a plant can have such motion without nerves or muscles.

Sensitive plants belong to the mimosa family, which has about 400 members. Some kinds of mimosas are trees, but the greater number of them are bushes and small shrubs.

Several of the smaller mimosa plants are so quick to answer the touch by folding that they are called in the "sensitive" group. Brazil and other lands in South America are native homes of these plants, and they grow wild in warm parts of Africa as well.

Sensitive plants usually grow to a height of from one to three feet. They have been raised with success in some greenhouses in our part of the world. The leaves are finely divided. Not only do they fold up when touched, but the leaf stalks drop down as well. By touching and shaking them a little roughly, all the leaves can be made to fold and droop at once. If left alone after the touching and shaking, the leaves will open again and the leaf-stalks will rise.

Folding and drooping take place in sensitive plants at night; and we may say that they sleep while the sun is out of sight.

The sensitive brier, a rose plant which grows wild in southern parts of the United States, is a relative of the sensitive plant. It does not show such quick response to the touch but will wither if roughly handled.

There is also the sensitive pea, with leaves which move a little after being touched, but the movement does not equal that of sensitive plants of the mimosa family.

Southern Asia has a plant with leaves which move a little without being touched. This is known as the telegraph plant.

LABOR STRIFE IS SEEN IF WAGNER BILL FAILS

Googe Tells Atlanta Federation of Trades Tenne Situation Exists.

Asserting that unless the Wagner bill is passed by congress immediately, trouble will begin in labor and industrial circles in the south, George L. Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, Wednesday night told delegates at the regular meeting of the Atlanta Federation of Trades that a tense situation now exists.

"The south," said Mr. Googe, "is certain to see much industrial strife within two weeks if the bill is not passed. I have been busy aiding to forestall strikes during the last few weeks and have helped stop 20 major walkouts. The situation is extremely tense and unless the bill is passed we will be unable in the future to stop walkouts."

The Wagner bill is designed to force arbitration of all labor troubles between industry and employees.

A resolution asking the Georgia delegation in congress to support the Sweeney bill, which has been passed by the lower house, was adopted. The bill will stop payless furloughs imposed upon postal employees. The trades group also passed a resolution asking the delegation to support a bill to establish a national credit union law. A. Steve Nance, president of the federation, presided.

Do Not Let Baby Suffer When Teething

Most baby ills originate in the intestinal tract, and at teething time the little stomach and bowels are sure to be upset. When baby is suffering from constipation, gas, indigestion, intestinal colic, and occasional diarrhoea, caused by improper feeding, or upset stomach when teething, "Teething" will get him well quicker and keep him well better; because "Teething" is especially prepared to assist in regulating baby's bowels and intestinal tract. ## WHY NOT TRY THIS MODERN METHOD OF SOLVING THE INSECT PROBLEM?

Thousands of housewives use Flit not only because it keeps their homes free of flies, annoying bugs and insects, but because it saves them money.

Their homes are free from moths which ruin expensive clothes; and free from ants and roaches which spoil costly food. They spray each room from attic to cellar, keep it shut tight for five minutes—and all insect pests are gone. Not only that, but Flit quickly dispels cooking odors. Remember, Flit is sold with a money-back guarantee.

FLIT

Get a can of Flit Powder, too. Shake it into cracks and hard-to-reach corners. It kills every bug it comes in contact with. It is a sure way to rid your dog of fleas.

tense and unless the bill is passed we will be unable in the future to stop walkouts."

The Wagner bill is designed to force arbitration of all labor troubles between industry and employees.

A resolution asking the Georgia delegation in congress to support the Sweeney bill, which has been passed by the lower house, was adopted. The bill will stop payless furloughs imposed upon postal employees. The trades group also passed a resolution asking the delegation to support a bill to establish a national credit union law. A. Steve Nance, president of the federation, presided.

practiced law with William Schley Howard. For a time he then practiced independently and, while Clifford L. Walker was governor of Georgia, was named assistant attorney-general of Georgia.

In 1917 he joined the law firm of Dorsey, Brewster, Howell & Heyman and has since continued with that firm, having been a partner under the firm name of Howell, Heyman & Bolding and later as Heyman, Bolding & Heyman.

Mr. Bolding was a member of both the Atlanta Bar Association and the Georgia State Bar Association. He took great interest in public and civic affairs, though never aspiring to hold public office.

Mr. Bolding is survived by his wife, the former Maude Wells; a daughter, Miss Frances Marion Bolding; his mother, Mrs. F. M. Bolding; a brother, Dr. Fred C. Bolding; two sisters, Miss Alda Bolding and Mrs. T. A. McClain.

Funeral services will be conducted at Spring Hill at 2 o'clock this afternoon, with Dr. Ryland Knight, Dr. S. A. Cowan and Dr. Ellis A. Fuller officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Robert C. Alston, president of the Atlanta Bar Association, on Wednesday appointed the following members to form an honorary escort for the funeral: Reuben Arnold, W. P. Bloodworth, Pope F. Brock, Shepard Bryan, Frank Carter, R. W. Crenshaw, John Dennis, C. M. D. Dorney, Paul S. Ehrig, Jr., Willis M. Everett, Sr., Marion Smith, M. F. Goldstein, E. W. Moise, Clem Powers, Thomas Howell Scott, Elbert P. Tuttle, Robert P. Troutman, Dan MacDougald, Arthur Heyman, Allen Post and Alex C. King.

Paliborers will be Arthur Heyman, W. P. Bloodworth, John R. Hynd, Clint W. Hager, Judge Garland M. Watkins, Judge Hugh M. Dorsey, Judge John D. Humphries and Bond Almond.

Gun Dropped by Thief Later Shoots Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 23.—(AP) Don Barclay, a 10-year-old supply company clerk, lay on a hospital bed here today and explained how a would-be robber shot him by "remote control."

A negro, armed with a sawed-off shot gun, entered the company's office and attempted to hold up J. M. Meagher, a clerk. Meagher struck the negro over the head with a bottle. The negro dropped the gun and fled.

A few minutes later Barclay entered. He picked up the gun to examine it. The gun was accidentally discharged and Barclay's right leg was peppered with buckshot.

$8,67,690 WRITE-UP BY UTILITY ALLEGED

Cities Service Merger of 3 Gas Concerns Features Federal Hearing.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP)—A trade commission investigator said today that there was a valuation write-up of $8,676,900 in the merger by Cities Service Company of the Arkansas Natural Gas Company, Natural Gas & Fuel Corporation and Industrial Gas Company in 1928 into the Arkansas Natural Gas Corporation.

A. E. Lundvall, the investigator, laid figures before the commission's utility inquiry to show that the fixed capital of the three companies prior to the merger was $21,400,146.32, and that the property was entered on the books of the merged corporation at $27,169,121.32, or a write-up of $5,768,975.

"This write-up," Lundvall said, "was capitalized through the issuance of additional securities under the terms of the merger agreement," to be used to liquidate the debt of the merged corporation and to give the acquisition of other property.

Lundvall listed another item of $2,198,855.00 as the amount of write-up in the fixed capital of Natural Gas & Fuel Corporation when it was organized in 1920, and a further item of $298,846 in a sale of stock, to give the total of $8,676,900 total write-up.

Indicating Cities Service control, Lundvall said that at December 31, 1930, Cities Service owned 72.8 per cent of the corporation's no par common; 32.4 per cent of the 6 per cent cumulative preferred; 3.3 per cent of the Class A common; and all of the outstanding 6 per cent bonds. Cities Service's total investment was $18,415,967.05.

Lundvall disclosed that Cities Service never received any dividends up to December 30, 1930, on the common, but it regularly received dividends on the preferred, which were sufficient for return on the cost of the investment of 5.33 per cent in 1928, 11.71 in 1929 and 7.38 in 1930.

The commission, however, must fix the rate so as to keep total costs of the air mail after July 1, 1933, within air mail revenues and review these rates annually.

Other points on which the conferees agreed include:

The air mail postage rate shall be six cents an ounce compared with the present eight cents for the first ounce and 10 cents for each additional ounce.

One year air mail contracts may be made with payment not to exceed 33 1-3 cents per air plane mile.

RAILROADS ENJOIN RATE HEARINGS

The courts to be unfair and confiscatory, and that the hearing held just prior to the March order cut the roads $75,000.

The petition was drawn in the name of the West Point railroad, et al., and the names of other attorneys were signed to it. The attorneys include Marshall, Neely & Green; Little, Powell, Bell & Goldstein; Brandon, Hynds & Tindall; Colquhoun Park, Troutman & Arkwright; Tye, Thomson & Tye; Heyman, Bolding & Heyman; Frank W. Gwathney, of Washington; W. Nel McGee, of Augusta, and others.

The commission has issued a number of orders cutting freight rates, but only the sand and gravel order has been accepted by the roads. All other cuts have been enjoined, and since their injunction have been rescinded by the commission.

ARBITRATION IS OPENED ON TERMINALS TAX HIKE
An arbitration hearing of a recent increase of the tax valuation of the Atlanta and Savannah Terminal Companies was held in the state capital Wednesday, with Judge A. B. Lovett, of Savannah, acting as arbitrator for the terminal companies, and Judge P. Willhoit, chairman of the public service commission, acting for the state.

The arbitrators reserved decision. The tax valuations of the two terminal companies, along with those in Macon, Albany and Athens, were increased recently by state officials from $1,324,680 to $4,480,704.

All the companies are owned and controlled by operating railroads, but are organized as separate corporations. The increases are similar in amount to those made in railroad property valuations on roads that resisted orders of the Georgia public service commission for rate reductions.

The Atlanta and Savannah Terminal Companies were represented by Judge Lovett in a joint arbitration, but it was understood that the other terminal companies will be heard singly.

The valuation of the Savannah Terminal Company was raised, for tax purposes, from $213,940 to $602,300, and the Atlanta Terminal Company had its tax valuation increased from $531,600 to $1,268,409.

man, a telephone operator, was grazed by a bullet.

Shortly before midnight a fire broke out at the gates of the plant. Company officials estimated that damage to the plant had reached $75,000.

The strikers held prisoners some 1,500 employees of the company, preventing them from leaving the plant. Four companies of guardsmen were en route after the sheriff appealed to the governor for aid.

The mob broke into a parking lot of company employees and began smashing automobiles.

The striking truck drivers at Minneapolis refused to accept a proposed settlement by the national labor board but agreed to extend for another 24 hours the truce that was to have expired last night.

There were no disorders but three regiments of national guardsmen were at hand at present disorders. The strike, in which an embargo against commercial trucks has been enforced, has caused riots resulting in one death, injuries to scores.

Man Francis Shoemaker, farmer-laborer, was one of those arrested and last night he was convicted of disorderly conduct and ordered to pay a fine of $20 or serve 10 days. Sentence was stayed.

Persistent Girl Sets New Aviation Record

PORT DARWIN, Northern Australia, May 23.—(AP)—Petite Jean Batten, who refused to quit trying after two failures, today made a new aviation record for women by completing a flight from England to Australia in 14 days, 23 hours and 25 minutes.

The 24-year-old New Zealand girl brought her old wooden Moth plane, which has been in use for nearly five years, down at 3 p. m., local time (1:30 a. m. eastern standard time) to cut four and a half days off the old record, held by Amy Johnson, wife of Captain James A. Mollison.

"I had an adventurous trip," she said as she was greeted. "The weather was frightful throughout. Where did I get a cup of tea?"

On the last stage of her trip, across the Timor sea, head winds blew her plane miles south of the course, she said, but she managed to battle through and had no difficulty in finally locating Port Darwin.

HOUSE VOTES CASH TO AID INDUSTRY

mit loans to mining and smelting companies and for other purposes.

Rapidly clearing its state, the house at once took up the bank deposit bill. Passage is due tomorrow.

The senate is lagging further behind. The NIRA controversy has sidetracked tariff debate for most of two days. A vote on the tariff bill this week appears unlikely.

Chairman David I. Walsh, of the senate labor committee, visited the White House and indicated Mr. Roosevelt wants the Wagner labor board bill passed, if possible. He said the committee would report the measure soon. Once on the senate floor, it probably would precipitate long debate.

The president has three more measures to send to congress. One will outline a broad policy on water use, covering rivers and harbors, flood control and reforestation. This is in response to a congressional request for a statement of policy. The others will deal with war debts and the new tax on Philippine coconut oil. Mr. Roosevelt said he did not plan a message on labor and social legislation. House leaders had forecast such a message.

7,907,000 Jobless.

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP)—The national industrial conference board, in a survey issued today, estimated the total number of unemployed workers in April at 7,907,000. This figure, said the board, represented a decline of 114,000 from the March total and a reduction of 5,296,000, as compared with March, 1933, when unemployment was at its highest point.

JAPS' NAVY BUILDING MAY FORCE DEFENSE

Strengthening of Pacific Bases Will Be Necessary, Says Swanson.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP)—Secretary Swanson told reporters in response to questions today that the United States would have to consider strengthening naval bases in the Pacific should Japan seek to build a fleet in excess of limits of the Washington naval treaty or to attain naval parity with the United States and Great Britain.

The secretary said he believed the present 5-5-3 ratio should be maintained by the fleets of this country, Great Britain and Japan.

"The naval powers met in London," the secretary added, "and thought they gave safety to each nation. I see no reason for reconsideration at this time. He gave no indication that he believed Japan was attempting to obtain a fleet of greater strength than permitted under the Washington treaty."

Swanson also said navy officials are still divided on the question of the utility of dirigibles and that any decision would be reserved until full reports are received on participation of the Macon in the Caribbean fleet maneuvers.

"We are still experimenting," he added.

ATLANTA BREWERY SALES ARE BARRED

Steiner draws its support largely from the estate.

Hirsch is a member of the Steiner board of trustees and also is an administrator of the Steiner estate.

The order which came through from Washington would permit the brewery to manufacture beer, but would not permit its sale.

Georgia laws prohibit the manufacture or sale of an alcoholic drink of any content, including malt beverages.

Key Scores U. S. Stand.

Mayor James L. Key, nationally known anti-prohibition leader, Wednesday scored the government's stand in the matter when informed of the revocation of the right to sell the brew legally.

"I do not see how the administration or its officers, who declared the 3.2 beverages of all kinds are non-intoxicating and who sponsored and obtained repeal of the national dry laws, can consistently take the attitude it has taken in this matter," Key said. "It appears to me that it is too trivial for a big government to meddle with."

"The people of Atlanta are satisfied with the arrangement by which the local company was making and distributing the beverage. No one has been or can get drunk on it. I believe a greater good would be done if the government would devote its attention to matters of greater importance and magnitude."

"Atlantans want beer, and they are going to have it."

"The only question is whether Georgia capital can be invested in brew-

Hydrophobia Epidemic Reported in Estonia

HELSINKI, Finland, May 23.—(UP)—An epidemic of hydrophobia, believed to have originated in soviet Russia, was reported sweeping southern Estonia tonight.

Already 300 persons have been bitten by mad dogs and cats. They are being rushed to the Pasteur Institute at Dorpat.

The population is horror-stricken. Authorities ordered mad animals shot. So far 7,000 dogs and cats have been killed in a futile effort to check the disease.

Chief Justice Russell Resting More Easily

Chief Justice Richard B. Russell, of the Georgia supreme court, was reported in good condition at St. Joseph's hospital late Wednesday. He rested easily all day, hospital attendances reported.

Justice Russell has been at the hospital for some days, suffering from a serious, though not critical, illness. He is expected to be able to return to his home next week.

GOLD-BUYING PROGRAM DEVELOPED FOR CUBA

HAVANA, May 23.—(AP)—A gold buying program for Cuba was completed today with the signing of a decree by the cabinet setting the price at approximately $35 an ounce.

The gold decree stipulates that the government is to acquire all gold, charging 1 per cent commission for expenses.

It prohibits the exporting of gold of all forms, whether in bars, coined or as jewelry.

American and Cuban gold coins in circulation at present will not be considered legal tender in the future.

ROOSEVELT MAY NAME SECOND WOMAN ENVOY

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP)—The United States may send a second woman envoy abroad.

The name of Mrs. J. Borden Harri-dene, democratic national committee woman for the capital, was linked today with speculation over the post of minister to the Irish Free State.

President Roosevelt set the precedent for woman diplomats with the appointment of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen to Denmark. He intends to fill the vacancy at Dublin caused by the death of W. W. McDowell before congress adjourns.

Committee To Study Georgia Airport Work Sea-Gulf Canal Route To Be Resumed Soon

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP)—Bound for Jacksonville and a tour of the route of the proposed cross-Florida ship canal, a committee of engineers appointed by President Roosevelt to study the cost of the project left here today.

The board was named to look into the divergent report of cost estimates by the army and public works engineers. It was understood the engineering corps placed the cost at about $200,000,000 while the public works figure was about $115,000,000.

Members of the committee are Major Brehan B. Somervell, for the army; Clarence McDonough and M. H. Fowler, representing public works; and Walter J. Douglas, New York consulting engineer. Colonel W. P. Hannum, district engineer at New Orleans and second army member of the board, will join other members at Jacksonville.

Accompanying the board was H. S. Buckman, consulting engineer for the National Gulf-Atlantic Ship Canal Association.

Early resumption of work on airports throughout Georgia stated as CWA projects appeared probable tonight as Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, wired Georgia for information on airport work yet to be done.

The administrator asked the Georgia directors to send details on the number of airports only partially completed when civil works were disbanded, the number of men to be employed finishing those projects and the money which would be needed.

It was indicated Hopkins would have a definite announcement on plans for completing the airport work shortly after he had obtained a picture of the program of the state director for this work.

PRESIDENT APPROVES NATCHES TRACE SURVEY

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today signed the bill providing $50,000 for a survey of the old Indian trail known as the "Natches Trace," extending from Nashville, Tenn., to Natchez, Miss.

In addition to the mysterious telephone call, police said there appeared to be conflicting accounts about the youth's movements while in San Francisco and there was nothing to indicate either suicide or a slaying. The coroner's report of an autopsy failed to show, due to the condition of the body, whether there was any mark of violence.

The body was held at the morgue from January 11 to January 31 when it was buried in the Potters field.

Fifty Cherokee Indians will arrive in Atlanta this afternoon to take part in the annual Cherokee homecoming celebration to be held here, at Decatur and at Newnan on Friday and Saturday. The Indians, headed by Chief J. B. Blythe and accompanied by Professor John H. Kirk, principal of the Cherokee school, come from the Cherokee reservation on Nantahala mountain, in North Carolina.

The program here is sponsored by the 122d Infantry, who have arranged for the entertainment of the Indians while here. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, and various parent-teacher organizations have sponsored the affair.

Included among the entertainers on the reservation is a "dancing chorus" of 12 to 15 Indian women. While here the entire party will give programs of tribal dances and customs, appearing in their ancestral costumes. They will also sing popular songs of today and hymns in the Cherokee language.

The party will appear at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the DeCATUR Girls' High school; at 8 o'clock Friday night at the Junior High school; and at the city auditorium at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

Saturday afternoon the party will go to Newnan to receive an ancient Indian totem pole, now in the Potters field gardens there. These gardens are situated on an old campground of the Creek and Cherokee tribes. The totem pole is to be given here and at Decatur will include a historic Cherokee pageant entitled "Nacoochee."

The dramatic art class of the University System of Georgia evening school will present the French comedy, "A Scrap of Paper," on the lawn of the school tonight at 8:15 o'clock. The school is located at 223 Walton street and is under the direction of George M. Sparks. This is the first year that dramatic art has been given as an accredited course at the school. The class is coached by Nell Charles Booth.

The cast includes George Manners, Catherine Martin, Virginia Dance, T. Matthews, George Vance, Margaret Turrell, Ruby Micaroff, Agnes Gunby, Francis Dugan, Kenneth Moss and Dorothy Goodin.

VIENNA, May 23.—(AP)—A bomb exploded today in the courtyard of Starberg castle in Waxenberg, upper Austria, home of Prince Ernst von Starberg, vice chancellor of Austria and leader of the fascist Heimwehr.

The chapel of the castle was damaged severely and many of the windows of the castle itself were shattered. Authorities said they suspected Nazis of setting off the bomb.

LOUISIANAN RENAMED BY CATHOLIC KNIGHTS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 23.—(AP)—Dr. Felix Gaudin, New Orleans, was re-elected supreme president of the Catholic Knights of America at the closing session of a convention here today.

E. H. Krebs, Little Rock, former supreme trustee, was named supreme president, while Henry Siemer, St. Louis, was re-elected supreme secretary. Norman E. Patrick, Indianapolis, was elected supreme treasurer, and Charles Hope, of Morrison, Mo.; W. E. Byrnes, Houston, Texas, and Charles F. Pich, of McHenry, Ill., were named supreme trustees.

The next convention of the order was set for 1937, and will be held at Cincinnati.

FOUL PLAY HINTED IN YOUTH'S DEATH

Identification of Victim Bares Mysterious Transcontinental Phone Call.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—(AP)—The body of a youth, dragged from San Francisco bay four months ago and buried in a Potters field grave as "John Doe No. 1," was identified by police today as that of Arne V. Gandy, 20, of New York and Teaneck, New Jersey.

Though police said they were spurred by information concerning a purported long-distance telephone call from San Francisco to his mother in Teaneck at 4 a. m. last January 10, the body was pulled from the bay by a dredge the next day.

Anonymous Caller.

Police said young Gandy's father, in New York at the time, reported the person making the telephone call refused to give his name during the conversation which included a statement: "Your son is in a hospital in San Francisco. He is in bad shape. He probably will need an operation. The elder Gandy reported, police said, that the mysterious caller also declared: "The kid is here and for God's sake forgive him and give him another chance."

"My wife urgently demanded the speaker give his name," police quoted Gandy as adding, "and she was greeted by a strange laugh."

Identification of the body was accomplished through the national bureau of identification to which San Francisco police sent the fingerprints. The body was compared with prints in an identification system kept by the Dollar Steamship Company, with which young Gandy signed as a mess boy on a round-the-world trip December 1932, when he was 17.

Officials of the company said young Gandy visited their offices here three times during his stay here and seemed "tickled" with his job aboard the ship. He had been on the vessel since January 5, however, the officials said Gandy asked for a discharge and was paid.

In addition to the mysterious telephone call, police said there appeared to be conflicting accounts about the youth's movements while in San Francisco and there was nothing to indicate either suicide or a slaying. ## Polish Bailiffs Hold German Bison Roundup

BERLIN, May 23.—(UP)—A posse of 22 bailiffs from the Polish government turned cowboys today and lassoed nine bison on the property of Prince Heinrich of Prussia.

The bailiffs, attaching the prince's properties in estates near Beuthen, upper Silesia, confiscated the animals, one of the last herds of western Europe.

The attachment of the prince's estates is proceeding on grounds he is behind in his taxes. The bison will be transferred to the Polish preserve where they were valued at 5,000 zloty (about $950) a piece. The prince is serving three weeks in Nikolai prison for refusal to pay back taxes.

COUNTY VOTES DOWN LIQUOR CAR REWARDS

Rewards for officers seizing liquor cars and the eight-hour day for county police were adversely Wednesday by the board of county commissioners.

The matter of giving arresting officers half the proceeds from the sale of liquor cars was brought up by Commissioner Paul S. Etheridge, who favored the move when it was brought before the commission several weeks ago by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin. County Attorney Ralph Pharr said that under the law that such reward was illegal, and the matter was ended with a remark from Chairman F. Longino that he thought a reward for the reduction in hours would be more in order.

Commissioner Ragsdale rendered a report showing the result of a vote by the board of county commissioners, which was 10-2 in favor of the eight-hour day, 31 voting for the change and 7 against the proposed reduction. Mr. Ragsdale expressed the opinion that the reduction in hours would increase efficiency, but agreed with other members of the board that it was not practical at this time.

General Home Atkinson, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, has announced his sponsorship and residential staffs for the Confederate reunion to be held in Chattanooga June 5, 7 and 8.

The staff follows: Mrs. W. E. Maskey, president general of the U. S. C. of Hot Springs, Ark., matron of honor; Mrs. John H. Anderson, of Raleigh, N. C., chaplain of honor; Mrs. Randolph Coyle, of Mobile, Ala., sponsor for the south; Mrs. W. W. Townes Jr., of Petersburg; Miss Julia Jackson Preston, of Charlotte, N. C.; Miss Margaret Louise Christian, of Washington, D. C., maids of honor.

General Atkinson, before leaving for the convention, will celebrate his eighty-sixth birthday next Sunday at his home.

DECREASE REPORTED IN STEEL PRODUCTION

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP)—Steel output during the last week suffered its first important setback of the year, falling three points to 88 per cent of capacity, said Iron Age today. The review asserted that the "negative influences" that made their appearance in the industry a fortnight ago are multiplying.

Factors in the decline in output, as listed by the publication, were "formal submission of demands on the mills by the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, further recession in motor car production, continuance of drought in the central belt, accumulating uncertainty as to the administration policies and growing concern over the strike fever pervading labor in all branches of industry."

LONGER DENIES GUILT ON CONSPIRACY CHARGE

BISMARCK, N. D., May 23.—(AP)—Governor William Langer left off reading proof for the Leader, his administration newspaper, long enough to plead not guilty along with his seven co-defendants in federal court today to an indictment charging conspiracy to obstruct an act of Congress.

The eight then requested a continuance of the trial because of the illness of State Senator Oscar E. Erickson, absent defendant whom they characterized as a "material and indispensable witness." Judge Miller deferred decision.

It was around the Leader that the investigation resulting in the indictments centered. The government contends relief workers paid with federal funds were forced to contribute from their earnings for the support of this publication, and that fraud was perpetrated by the date-perished today in a devastating landslide at Lokchang in northern Kwangtung, province of China.

The reports, from Chinese sources, said heavy rains caused a slide on the Kaiman mountain, burying villages while water in torrents gushed down the mountainside drowning many.

HONG KONG, May 23.—(AP)—At least 250 men, women and children were reported to have died today in a devastating landslide at Lokchang in northern Kwangtung, province of China.

CONCERN'S CRASH LAID TO 'PRICE COMBINE'

JACKSON, Miss., May 23.—(AP)—Charges that underselling by a dozen major packing companies forced the retirement from business of the Cleveland Provision Company, of Cleveland, Miss., in 1930 were met here today with voluminous documentary evidence implicating connected accounts were responsible for the firm's closure.

J. M. Sans, government witness, was called upon by counsel for the packers to identify, page by page, the accounts receivable ledger of his company showing uncollected bills ranging from a few dollars to one item of $2,700 when the provision company went out of business.

Previously, the government witness, one of a number called in the department of agriculture's hearing on complaints charging the packers with alleged price collusion and unfair trade practices, had testified that a "price combine" existed in his trade territory in 1930, but that the packers undersold designated price scales.

KEY WILL APPROVE TIME REFERENDUM

Vote To Be Taken in Primary; County Referendum Suggested.

Mayor James L. Key announced Wednesday that he will approve council's action in seeking a city-wide vote on daylight saving time in Atlanta during the summer months. The vote will be taken in the September 26 primary, under the plan of proposition.

At the same time Hewitt Chambers, secretary of the county democratic executive committee, received a communication from Carlos Hopkins, deputy clerk of Fulton county superior court, suggesting a county-wide referendum in the September 12 state primary.

There appeared to be a division in the ranks of the county committee as to the feasibility of a county vote on the issue, many contending that the city vote would result in a fair expression of the attitude of the county and that since the state ballot will be relatively long, little interest would be shown in the county expression.

The mayor also indicated that he will approve the newly adopted 1934-1935 tax ordinance passed by him from Monday's session of council with the understanding that no ordinance in excess of the $500 charter limitation be collected from any one classification.

His decision came after a delegation of Atlanta hotel operators appeared at his office to protest the $1.20 annual fee per room. If key sanctions the ordinance as approved, the larger hotels will pay only up to $300 while the smaller operators will pay $1.20 a room instead of $1 a room as last year.

Councilman William G. Hastings, of the Ansley and Alderman Robert Carpenter, of the Imperial, both of whom were in the delegation Wednesday, will seek to revise the charge downward at the next council session. Others among the delegation were J. E. de Jarnette, of the Henry Grady, and L. O. Moseley, of the Wine-coff.

Khabarovsk Shooting Protested by Japan

TOYKO, May 24.—(AP)—Charging that the Japanese consulate, general in Khabarovsk, near the Manchukuo border, had been fired upon twice, the foreign office announced today that a vigorous protest and a demand for investigation had been filed with the soviet government.

Reports received here stated that on May 20 and again on May 21 shots were fired into the consulate, one bullet striking a bookcase in the office and another lodging in the bedroom of Consul General Shigeru Shimada.

Even though no one was injured, the Japanese government was represented as viewing this occurrence in the light of far eastern Kral as serious.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield—I have had 11 years of schooling, yet I haven't overcome something I have taken over from my mother. I lead my class and always have, yet I am afraid of taking part in any public performance like oratorical contests, plays and special programs. I get up the courage to say I will and then I always back out before the time comes. I know everybody hates a coward and I just can't stand on a platform and face an audience of people. I go into class knowing my lesson by heart and when I come down to recite I am trembling and awkward. My good marks come from reviews and exams that are written, not from oral work. Now, Miss Chatfield, I know what it means to be able to speak in public. It is almost necessary for a man's success these days. I will do anything you suggest to relieve myself of this awful embarrassment and to overcome my cowardice.

Answer:
In Dr. John Rathbone Oliver's book, "Psychiatry and Mental Health," he has a chapter captioned "Technique of Delinquency." He says that the child who is a delinquent is a child who is a coward. This discussion will give you the very suggestions you need and if you follow them you will no doubt overcome your weakness.

The gist of the whole matter is that you must not let yourself run from your fears. You must face them and do it with the help of a friend. The boy of 12 is now a patient in a psychiatric clinic that I know about. He was afraid of everything, reduced to hysteria by the fear of his mother. He was made to woe him out of his fearful attitude. He was afraid of animals, afraid of people, afraid of the dark, afraid of automobiles. Gradually the child has been led out of his prison of fear by an understanding teacher who is co-operating with his physician. When the children stood on the platform to recite, they tucked him away in the back row where he could never be seen. Gently they eased him up to the second row and then to the front row. On the other day he actually sang a few lines of poetry and sang a little song. They have taught that child to make friends with his fears and he is going to be normal because of this scientific treatment.

You, who lead your class and are thought of as a leader, are a coward. A brave foolish fear can play in a man's success, will have no trouble in doing for yourself what teacher and physician have done for this child.

Dear Miss Chatfield—Ever since we fell in love with each other my girl has refused to let me do anything that I like. I said yes, but I am not sure that I will. I happen to know that she had some experiences with other boys prior to her engagement to me. I guess she has reformed, but I am not satisfied. Could you advise me what I ought to do?

Answer:
Unless you can manage to put the distressing incidents out of your mind, you will never be able to do much less speak of them, you wouldn't be doing yourself or the girl justice in marrying her. So long as these doubts of her are harassing you, so long as you are dwelling on her past indiscretions and fretting about your future with her, there is not much chance that either of you will know anything but misery. If you find it impossible to exercise this sort of mind control, if you cannot have faith in the girl, then you had better bid her good bye, painful though the parting be.

Dear Miss Chatfield—I have been going with years old three young men. I love her very much. Occasionally I take a drink which she knows, although I have taken great pains to conceal it from her mother. A while back a meddling friend went to my girl's mother and told her that I was drinking. It seems I work hard all day, behave myself as well as the average boy of 22 and other people are around attending to my business for me. My girl is not angry with me but says her mother forbids her to go with me and she has to have dates without her knowledge or sit tight and wait for the storm to blow over?

Answer:
Isn't there a better solution of the problem than you suggest? Would it not be safer and smarter from your viewpoint and the girl's as well to leave off the occasional drink and tell her mother that you have resolved upon this course? If you take only an occasional drink the habit is not yet fastened upon you, though if you keep it up it is only a matter of time until you have formed the habit. Surely if you love the girl and are unhappy over the enforced separation from her, you won't let anything so small as a drink stand between you and her?

Increase Skin Beauty
With Mercolized Wax
To restore the youthful loveliness of your skin we suggest the daily use of pure Mercolized Wax. It flakes off the film of blemished surface skin in tiny invisible particles. All beauty-marring imperfections such as freckles, tan, blackheads, dry or reddened skin disappear. The beautiful under skin then revealed is velvety smooth, soft and flawless. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. Powdered Sapolite reduces wrinkles and other signs of aging. Simply dissolve one ounce Sapolite in a half-pint witch hazel and use as an astringent. At all drug and department stores.—(adv.)

She Met and Married Him Within Twenty-Four Hours

By RUTH FOWLER BROWN.
Some time ago a client sent me his sweetheart's handwriting for analysis. Among other things, he informed him that this girl was in a period of emotional change which might mean trouble or disappointment ahead for him. I suggested that he "take her by the horns" and insist upon an immediate marriage. "Otherwise,"

I warned, "she is liable to meet someone else, form an immediate attachment and reverse her feeling for you."

Unfortunately, before the analysis reached him, she did meet another man. She not only formed an immediate attachment—she married the newcomer within 24 hours.

Script of popular film star, Neil Hamilton. Emotional-constructive type. Warm-hearted, impulsive, enthusiastic, fine judge of character, intuitive, forceful, energetic, determined, deftness with his hands, and constructive ability.

At first glance, such a prediction might seem almost magical. But, really, it was quite easy, and entirely logical. Handwriting reveals moods with surprising accuracy, and this girl's mood was revealed by her script. Knowing her mood and her personality, it was quite simple to foresee what her reaction would be in a given situation. The situation developed, and she acted true to type.

In a previous article I stated that also alone was said indicative of character and personality, but that it did reveal changing moods. I have two different signatures of Neil Hamilton which offer a fine demonstration of this.

Signatures Alike.
From the standpoint of personality there is not a particle of difference between these signatures. The disconnected letters, the "i" dots, the bars, the finals, all are alike in both signatures. Even the letter formation (after allowing for the graphologically recognized minor alteration in different slopes) are the same. Manifestly, both samples represent Neil Hamilton. Then why the difference in slope?

The answer is this: In the one specimen his naturally enthusiastic, warm-hearted impulsiveness displays itself. But in the other—how he has restrained those impulses! Perhaps he was thinking about his income tax. Whatever it was, at the time he wrote that backward signature, Neil was holding something in restraint.

The normal backward writing is a sign of reserve and coolness. But in this specimen we have not a normal backward script, but a normal forward script. That reversal tells of mood.

If a person who normally dots his

Crochet Pattern 5140.
With crochet so popular, here is a bit of it that will appeal to every needlewoman. It is a charming design that can be done either in the usual filet crochet or in different colors on a filet crochet net, just as you choose. In the latter case, the net is made of squares, the length and the design is woven in the simplest of weaving—it is the sort of thing that a child would love to do. The strips of the design can be used in a number of ways. Bands set into linen, voile or dotted swiss for a bedspread, scarfs, curtains, buffet and vanity cases. Mr. J. C. Brown, a hand can be sewn together and the article made entirely of crochet. But there are many, many suggestions for its use given in the pattern.

In Pattern 5140 you will find complete detailed directions and a chart of the design for making the bands either entirely of filet crochet or of crocheted net and weaving; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches and of the weaving.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (your preference) to Household Arts Dept., The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

MRS. PURYEAR PASSES
AT ATLANTA RESIDENCE

Mrs. Elizabeth Puryear, 88, beloved church and social worker, died early Wednesday at the residence of her granddaughter, Mrs. H. L. Lieb, 1322 Greenwich avenue. S. W. Funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill with the Rev. John L. Yost officiating and burial will be in Greenwood cemetery. She was born in Mecklenburg county, Virginia, and came to Atlanta 30 years ago.

Mrs. Puryear was a member of the English Lutheran church during her long residence in Atlanta and was a life member of the missionary society of her church and has been active in charity and social work. She is survived by a son, G. M. Puryear; four granddaughters, Mrs. A. E. Granath, Mrs. H. R. Lieb, Mrs. H. C. Brown; three great-grandchildren, Ruth Granath, Ovid Granath Jr., and Louise Lieb; a sister, Miss Mattie Williams, and a brother, C. Williams, both of Louisville, Ky.

West opened the club 3 in response to his partner's bid. Mr. Magner won the ten and returned another high club. To the third trick, however, he led the club 4, knowing that his partner had no more clubs, but wishing to make it crystal clear to him that he desired him to ruff so that Mr. Magner might thus establish a trump trick for himself. South played the club 3, and West correctly decided to play a six-card establishment, was justified in bidding three clubs, as, even though doubled and if he failed to find a trick in his partner's hand, he could not lose more than 300 points. If the loss was that heavy, then the probabilities were that the opponents certainly had a game. South felt his six-card suit in spades was a dealer's rebid, and North contracted for game.

AROUND LOCAL CONTRACT TABLES

By Whitner Cary

AN UNHAPPY INTERVIEW.
Ben Conyers, the boy law student and alleged baseball pitcher, was in a most analytical mood. It will be recalled that, in partnership with the writer, he led the field in the qualifying round of the city championship which was happily concluded last Saturday evening. "Now," said Mr. Conyers, "let us look over the qualifying field and see if we can see any weak spots." "Or," continued Mr. Conyers, "ascertain if there is any pair which will offer a breathing spell in our earnest and laudable ambition to win the championship in those three grueling rounds which will be played Friday evening, Saturday afternoon and evening."

"Mr. Conyers," I replied, "I am glad to see that you are taking your alleged mind off of baseball activities and taking the coming test in the same fine spirit in which you took that game against the juniors at Emory, in which you pitched the entire game in spite of the fact that the opposition obtained 14 runs and 17 hits."

"It was only 13 runs," countered the boy law student, "and they had no other pitcher. When you speak of the law school pitching staff, you speak directly of me."

"Excuse me," I humbly replied, "let us drop the subject of baseball and consider our opposition in the hope of seeing some break in the barrage that we face. Let us take them in order of their bliffling."

"There are Major M. S. Screws and J. V. Keith. No weak spot there," I replied. Mr. Conyers, "J. V. Keith has always been a good duplicate player. The major is plenty good himself and when they decided to team up J. V. came out of retirement. He is being pointed for this tournament, just like a football team next for a big game. Look at their qualifying score." (I did, and it brought little solace to me.)

"F. B. Zachary and Bill Meador are next. Zach is playing better bridge than he ever thought he could or that his partners ever dreamed he might," said Mr. Conyers. "They play well together and only Tuesday evening won Mrs. Calhoun's tournament. Meador is a great stretch runner. Let us look about Mrs. J. T. Daniel and Charlie Mion?" I asked. At the mention of a Daniel Mr. Conyers became pale like unto a dead man.

"I've heard of a Daniel in bridge I expect trouble," he replied. "Her record in tournaments speaks for itself and is a big boost for the case set in that jewelry store."

"But is Charlie so good?" I ventured. "Kate has him playing better than ever," replied Mr. Conyers. "I don't think I hear of a Daniel in bridge I expect trouble," he replied. "Her record in tournaments speaks for itself and is a big boost for the case set in that jewelry store."

Children Soon Felt Fine

"I have found Theodor's Black-Draught so good for biliousness, bad taste in the mouth and other disagreeable feelings due to constipation," writes Mrs. Mary Garner, of Burleson, Texas. "My mother used it for a number of years and we do not think there is a better medicine. I was pleased when I saw Syrup of Black-Draught advertised. I sent for it and gave it to my children (as a laxative) for colds and when they felt bad. Soon they felt fine." Theodor's Black-Draught for the grown folks—and Syrup of Black-Draught for the children.—(adv.)

Miss Oliver To Participate In Today's Horse Show Opening

Miss Jean Oliver, daughter of Herbert Oliver, president of the Atlanta Horse Show Association, and Mrs. Oliver, will be among the youthful riders participating in the opening performance of the three-day horse show which opens here this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Piedmont park. Miss Oliver is listed among the south's most expert young riders and the above photograph was taken recently at the Tryon (N. C.) show when she won the Welwyn trophy for horsemanship for the third successive year. Appearing in the photograph with Miss Oliver is Mrs. John L. Washburn, of Tryon, who presented her with the trophy. The youthful Atlanta is pictured astride "Brilliant Star," handsome gelding which belongs to DeWitt King, of this city. Photograph by Feudly Photos, Inc.

A number of prominent visitors have arrived in the city for the annual horse show to be held here today, Friday and Saturday at Piedmont park under the auspices of the Atlanta Horse Show Association. Among the visitors are the three well-known authorities who will act as judges for the show, including Miss Ivy Maddison, of New York; Gus S. Thompson, of Paducah, Ky., and Major Karl Greenwald, of Savannah. Other guests here are Mrs. Karl Greenwald, of Savannah; Mr. and Ben Hurt Hardaway and Mrs. J. D. ## BREAK O' DAY!

By Ralph McMillan

It Is the Timing That Counts, Hiestand Is Example

When Johnny Weismuller's double began to use his flying trapezes in the recent "Tarzan" picture, he had to have some of the twigs and leaves, put there to make them appear like boughs, taken away.

They affected his timing.

Yesterday Joe Hiestand, the tall shooter from Hillsboro, Ohio, broke 200 consecutive targets in the class championship in the southern zone shoot at the Capitol City Gun Club.

Nothing affected his timing.

Timing and rhythm are everything in shooting. Skill means nothing without those attributes. You will see a squad start shooting. It develops a sort of swing. It moves on, rhythmically, smoothly. The targets break into blue powder and drift on. They are hitting hard.

And then someone flinches or the gun jams. And the timing is broken. And almost inevitably the next shot is missed. The music of it was broken.

Joe Hiestand's timing was such, yesterday, that he was utterly oblivious of everything except the regular swing of the gun to his shoulder, the settling of the cheek, the call of "Pull" and the squeeze of the trigger.

Mark Arie, one of the greatest shots that ever lived, told me once that the man who could make his mind a blank and kill out all emotion could make of himself a great shooter. One has to withdraw into a protective shell. I doubt if Joe Hiestand heard a shot that was fired. His whole physical and mental being was wrapped into such an intense concentration that his every reaction was mechanical.

The trapshooters, when they do something like this, have presented something very fine in sport. They are worth seeing, the trapshooters. Especially the ones like Joe Hiestand.

JAMES LIKES THE HOSSES.

Byrne James, the Cracker second baseman, hopes to finish up a game or so early this week so that he can dash out to the horse show at Piedmont park.

Yes, sir, neighbor, the boy likes his equines. He has a ranch down near the Mexican border with about 40 head of horses on it.

"Any show or running horses?" I asked him.

"Naw," he said, "just work horses. That's all."

But he likes them. And he knows them. Fact is, he would make an excellent judge for the horse show this week if they needed one.

These baseball uniforms cover a lot of stories. One would never figure Byrne James to be a real, died-in-the-wool cow and boss man from down near the Mexican border. But he is.

He doesn't need any horse to help him cover that second-base territory. He's about as fast as Cavalade, the Derby winner, is Byrne James, the cowboy. He can also do a nice job of roping.

Fact is, Spencer Abbott should get him a rope.

When base runners start straying off second he could rope 'em in and peg 'em out for a while to graze. At any rate, you may look for Byrne James to be out visiting the horse show this week.

WASTED EFFORT.

On Tuesday the Crackers get 11 base hits and lose a ball game by five runs. On Wednesday they get just two base knocks and win by one run.

Which doesn't explain anything at all. Except that this is a curious world and we are all helpless little atoms.

LO, THE POOR YANKEES!

The New York Yankees continue to slump. In the past three games the slugging Yankees have collected less than a dozen hits and fewer runs.

Indications are that Babe Ruth is about at the end of the trail. Reports from Cleveland and Detroit have it that the Babe was slower than ever in the field and on bases. Fly balls he used to reach without effort are falling for base hits.

It's a bit melancholy to contemplate, the end of the road for the Babe. The Yankees are in first place by a game and a half but on this western tour have dropped six out of seven, the last four being consecutive. Detroit took two out of three, Cleveland three straight and Chicago won yesterday. A shake-

HORSE SHOW OPENS TODAY AT PIEDMONT

Governor Talmadge Will Ride Mule as Feature of Annual Show.

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the sixth annual spring horse show this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Piedmont park. The show, put on each spring by the Atlanta Horse Show Association, is attracting the largest entry list in history and promises to be one of the most successful shows ever held in the south.

The show will be formally opened when Governor Eugene Talmadge and General George Van Horn Moseley, commander of the fourth corps area, are given a military escort to their boxes, on either side of that occupied by Herbert O. Oliver, president of the Atlanta Horse Show Association.

Best blooded mounts from many of the leading stables of the south will vie for honors in the show. Creating no less interest than these famous horses will be the mule race, in which Governor Eugene Talmadge will ride. The governor will be up against class competition, as several officials of the horse show association are planning to be on other army mules to give the governor a run for honors. This class will take place Friday, opening the show for that afternoon.

There will be a number of military events each day as well as civilian classes. Three Atlanta sportsmen, T. W. Fletcher, John M. Ogden and R. DeWitt King, boast of three of the best stables in the country, and they will offer keen competition to the fine horses from Nashville, Greenville, Tampa, New Orleans, Columbus, Athens and other points that will be here.

Three outstanding judges have been secured for the events. They are Miss Ivy Maddison, of Greenwich, Conn., authority on horsemanship; Gus Thompson, of Paducah, Ky., and Major Karl C. Greenwald, U. S. A. Mr. Thompson will judge the children's ponies and saddle horses; Miss Maddison will judge horsemanship, and Major Greenwald will judge hunters, jumpers and polo ponies.

As in the past, members of the Young Matrons' Circle for Tallulah Falls school are acting as sponsors of the show for the association. They have had charge of the advance sale of tickets, which has been the largest in history, under the direction of Mrs. Eugene Harrington, chairman, and Mrs. Walter Candler, co-chairman.

The complete three-day program follows:

FRIDAY, MAY 25, P. M.

Boys' High Beats Lanier Poets, 5 to 1

MACON, Ga., May 23.—(P)—The Lanier Poets bowed to the Boys' High Purple, of Atlanta, here this afternoon, 5 to 1, in the final game of the season for the Poets.

Gus Lott, of Lanier, struck out one Purple batter and walked while Johnny Echols, of the Atlantas, issued four passes and struck out a like number.

Boys' High . . . 001 004 000—5 9 2
Lanier . . . 010 000 000—3 6 6

All by Himself—A Study in Poise and Training and Beauty!

Trystall Sweetheart, one of the horses from the Trystall stables of Nashville, Tenn., owned by Maurice Weinberger, is shown here posed for his picture. It wasn't necessary to have a groomer hold him. He is all by himself and looking at you. At least he will be today when the horse show begins at Piedmont park. It is to be one of best shows.

HELEN JACOBS WINS OPENER

PARIS, May 23.—(P)—Led by Helen Jacobs, United States champion and Wightman cup captain, American women tennis players today swept easily through first-round matches in the French hard-court championships at a warm-up for an unofficial team series against France tomorrow.

With only Miss Jacobs facing formidable opposition, the five American women won in straight sets with the total loss of only 17 games.

Miss Jacobs was opposed by the experienced Englishwoman, Mrs. A. M. York, but she merely looked through to victory, 6-0, 6-1, playing mostly from the base line.

Alice Marble defeated Mrs. Morel Deville, of France, 6-1, 6-1; Carolin Babcock eliminated Daisy Speranza, of France, 6-0, 6-2; Josephine Cruikshank defeated Susanne Barbier, of France, 6-0, 6-2; and Sarah Palfrey won from Jacqueline Horner, French junior titleholder, 6-4, 6-3.

While secondary matches in other divisions are being contested tomorrow Miss Jacobs will lead her Wightman cup squad against a French team composed of Mme. Rene Mathieu, rankin French player, Colette Rosambert, Mme. Jung Henrotin, Ida Adamoff and Jacqueline Goldschmidt.

Of America's three representatives in men's singles, only Wilmer Hines, former University of North Carolina star, was able to win.

Abbott Says Ty Cobb Greatest Ball Player

Recalls Days When Georgia Peach Was in Prime and Batted His Way to Fame.

By Ralph McGill.

"The best ball player that ever put on a shoe," said Spencer Abbott, manager of the Crackers, as he talked before the Wednesday game, "was Ty Cobb from Georgia."

And there you have it. The old-timers all come back to the Georgia Peach. They agree that Babe Ruth is the greatest if you add gate appeal. There are some who argue Hans Wagner. But most of them say Ty Cobb.

"I had him all but under me at first base one day," said Spencer Abbott. "He cut one shoe off and part of my uniform. But he got to first."

"I've heard a lot of people say Ty Cobb and I know he made enemies. But they didn't like him because he would never give in. He was going to make that base or else. If your leg happened to be in the way it was too bad. You'd best get it out of the way or you'd lose part of it."

"I've heard players say that Cobb slid into second and cut them down. I always asked them what they were talking about. They said he was in the way and get himself tagged out."

"I saw Cobb play a lot and I never saw him do anything just to hurt someone. He put all he had into everything he had. If it took getting your leg down to get there he'd cut your leg down."

HAD IT ON RIVALS.

"Yes, sir," ruminated the Cracker skipper. "Ty had just a little on all the rest of them. He was always thinking. And always thinking without slowing down what he was doing."

Yes, Cobb was the greatest of all ball players.

"This day Cobb singled short and rounded first fast. He saw Fielder Jones throw and without slowing down went on to second. And when the ball was at first Cobb was at second thumbing his nose at Fielder."

Yes, Cobb was the greatest of all ball players.

"I mentioned a recent story in which Cobb had been quoted as saying if he had it all to do over again he would be different—a little softer, perhaps."

HE MADE MISTAKES.

"He told me that on the coast last year," said Abbott. "He used to come down and sit on the bench when the club was in San Francisco. One day he told me that he had made mistakes. That he never could appreciate the fact that his players couldn't do things as well as he. And that he was probably too hard on them."

This was one of Cobb's greatest faults when he became manager at Detroit. He would not forgive an error, mental or physical, by his players. Especially would he not forgive a mental error.

"I don't know if Ty would change or not," said Abbott. "He had that spirit to win. He put all he had into it. He'd give his life to win a ball game, would that fellow. And I mean that. He actually would have risked his life, had he been required, to win a ball game or make one successful play. And I don't know that this was so wrong."

HAD TO BATTLE.

"Cobb had to start fighting," said Abbott. "He broke in in the days when a new player had to fight with his fists to keep his place. I guess he had 40 fights that first year. And he kept up that battling spirit."

Cobb is now in San Francisco. He spoke on a radio hook-up early this week, saying he had missed the major league games and paying a tribute to Connie Mack as a developer of young ball players.

And the Cracker manager, who saw Cobb at his prime, rates him as the greatest ball player the game ever produced.

SAUER DEFEATS KARL SARPOLIS

Pete Sauer, known to the eastern trade as Ray Steele, scored a victory over the rugged and smart Mr. Karl Sarpolis last night in the feature match at the baseball park where the heavyweights wrestle.

Sauer, winner of the first fall after 40 minutes of wrestling, lost the second in 20 minutes when Sarpolis got and held a hook scissors, the hold made famous by Paul Jones.

Sauer won the third fall and the match while in the grasp of another hook scissors. It was the first time a victim has "escaped" while still in the grasp of the hold.

THE WINNER.

After 10 minutes of futile struggles, Sauer rolled to his knees. Sarpolis reached for Sauer's head, thinking him about to attempt to stand up. But Sauer was not to be so easily won.

The old flying mare hold, pulling Sarpolis over on his shoulders and holding him there. Sarpolis, with his legs locked about Sauer, was unable to move to help himself.

In the semi-windup match Frank Speer won a thriller from Dave Roche. Speer was tossed out of the ring several times. He landed an elbow blow to the jaw on Roche as the latter dived for him and this precipitated the end.

A ROUGH ONE.

In the opening match Henry Weber brought forth one of the largest, roughest grapplers Atlanta has seen in Karl Davis. He had Sun Jennings, the Indian, defeated until he came in and delivered a kick to the Indian's jaw, and was disqualified.

All three matches had the crowd roaring. The only bad feature was supplied by several policemen. Despite protests, they leaped into the ring several times during the early matches. They evidently wanted to be seen, as they were not needed for protection nor to subdue any of the principals.

Matchmaker Henry Weber announced Jim Browning would head next week's card at the ball park.

Clarkdale Wins In West Georgia

CLARKDALE, Ga., May 23.—Norton's fine pitching and the timely hitting of Ayers gave Villa Rica a 5-to-0 victory over Clarkdale in the West Georgia league here today.

Norton allowed the locals only five hits and kept them well scattered. He struck out seven batters. Chaffin and Mitchell secured two hits each for Clarkdale.

MANY OLD FACES IN 'IRON DERBY'

By Claude H. Wolff.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23.—(P)—Defiant of danger and grumbling at restrictions which threaten to curb their speed, America's greatest automobile drivers are putting the finishing touches to their cars for the annual 500-mile race May 30.

Many familiar figures are back at the track hoping good fortune will smile and bring them a share of the $100,000 prize money.

Efforts of racing authorities to curtail speed have only aroused the resentment of the drivers. Not one of them believes he can handle his car at top speed on the treacherous course. Each will concede that something might happen to the other fellow—but not to him.

It is not new, this conflict between the drivers and the men in charge of racing. So far, the pilots have been victorious, and the superchargers eliminated, to speed by greater mechanical perfection of their motors.

The newest handicap to extreme speed is that of limiting the gasoline supply for the race to 45 gallons. It means that more than 11 miles to the gallon of fuel must be obtained.

A few years ago the drivers had single-seater, supercharger-equipped speedsters. When the riding mechanic was called back into service and the supercharger eliminated, it was believed the race would be slower, yet since that time, with fewer valves and carburetors, the record for the race has twice been broken!

The starting field will be limited to 33 cars—the fastest 31 gasoline-motored jobs and the two oil-burners, provided they meet the test. Gas-engined cars must qualify at 100 miles an hour for 25 miles. The minimum for the oil-burners over the same distance was fixed at 85 miles an hour. There are 83 entries.

GOLDEN TARPON.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., May 23.—(P)—Sunshine City fishermen were back on the gold standard today with the capture of the first golden tarpon here since the inauguration of Franklin Roosevelt. Caught by Phil Shearer, local barber, near Gandy bridge, the fish weighed 58 pounds and fought the hook 25 minutes before being brought to the gaff. Its scales, instead of the usual silver blue, were bright gold in color.

BUSTER DOUBLES AND GOES HOME ON WILD THROW

Cracker Youngster Holds Foes Hitless Until Eighth Round.

By Jimmy Jones.

Big Bill Schmidt, the brawny young Dutchman with the sprightly curve ball, flitted with no-hit, no-run glory for seven and one-third innings against the Memphis Chicks yesterday as the Crackers won the series "rubber," 1 to 0.

The big boy from Berkeley, Cal., had out-matched the brilliant pitching of his more experienced rival, Clay Touchstone, and had turned the Chicks back without a semblance of a hit until the eighth, when, with one out, Ramon Cueto, Memphis' Cuban catcher, dropped one in between right and center for a two-base hit to spoil his perfect exhibition.

BUSTER SCORES.

Schmidt's dazzling curve had the Chicks blinking and calling for a look at that ball. They got two more hits in the ninth, but the Crackers thanks to Buster Chatham's timely double in the seventh and Wes Kingdon's wild peg to third, which let him score, had bagged the only run of the game.

Touchstone allowed only two hits, while Schmidt gave three. The two rugged right-handers probably would have pitched right on that way until nightfall, but for Kingdon's heavy to Redfern in an effort to catch the flying Chatham on Duck McKee's bouncer which followed the shortstop's hit.

Schmidt, one of the great young rookies picked up by Spencer Abbott in the spring, accounted for his fifth victory of the season. And the win enabled the Crackers to leap step with Nashville and Chattanooga, both clubs having won yesterday.

Touchstone rarely has been in better form than he was yesterday. But the 20-year-old Schmidt was better than the ex-Birmingham right-hander. While he allowed one less hit, Touchstone actually was hit harder by the Crackers than Schmidt was by Memphis.

JAMES DOUBLES.

Byrne James, who is getting his eye on the ball, belted a grass-cutter down the rightfield lines the third time for an easy triple, but it was held to a double on the ground rules, since the ball, curving to the right all the way, ended up behind the emergency bleachers in right.

Redfern, Memphis third baseman, was badly spiked on the hand as he tried to tag James and would be out of the lineup several days.

Touchstone bled down, however, after James was caught trying to steal third. Sheeran was a pop-up victim and Schmidt struck out.

Prince Oana made another bid for a homer in the fifth, backing Prerost up against the leftfield stands to take his long drive, and in the sixth, James chased big Hutcherson back against the rightfield signs to snag his hard drive.

The Chicks didn't even get a hand lick of any kind off Schmidt until Cueto's double in the eighth that fell out of range, but both Oana and McKee, with two out in the ninth, Hutcherson singled to center and Prerost singled through short, but Redfern forced Schmidt to pitch the last out.

Schmidt also received perfect support behind his fine pitching.

McKEE'S GOOD CATCH.

Duck McKee, whose consecutive hitting streak was stopped at 22 games yesterday, made a fine catch on Hutcherson's foul fly in the seventh, racing behind the emergency seats in right to catch the ball.

Johnson rushed out so he could see McKee, then called Hutcherson out. Only 28 Crackers faced Touchstone and the Chicks were out.

It was the fastest game of the year here, being played in fraction under one hour and ten minutes.

NELSON TODAY.

The Crackers open a three-game series with Little Rock this afternoon at 3:30 and Lynn Nelson, the new right-hander from the Cubs, will pitch for Atlanta. It will be Nelson's second start for the Crackers and this time he hopes to go the route. He pitched five and one-third innings against Memphis Sunday.

Little Rock is said to be a greatly improved ball club since Johnny Monroe, who was Spencer Abbott's second baseman at Portland two years ago, took charge of the team. They beat Nashville Tuesday, 1-0. The Crackers also play a night game with the Travelers Friday night, starting at 8 o'clock.

Memphis, after dropping two out of three to Atlanta, moved on to Nashville to try and halt the Vols. Doc Prothro will shake up his team good fashioned for the series and Andy Reese is slated to be replaced at first.

Tarzan of the Apes realized how easy it would be to remain if the Queen bid one to do so. Nemone fascinated him; she seemed to exercise a subtle influence, mysterious, hypnotic; yet he was determined to give her no promise. "I will make you a noble of Cathne," whispered Nemone.

She was sitting erect now, her face close to Tarzan's. He could feel the warmth of her breath; the aura of some exotic scent was in his nostrils; her fingers closed upon his arm with a fierceness that hurt him. The lord of the jungle felt weak beneath the spell of her burning eyes.

"I will have made for you helmets of gold and habergeons of ivory, the most magnificent in Cathne; I will give you lions, fifty, a hundred; you shall be the richest, the most powerful noble in my court." Tarzan withdrew a little from Nemone, seeking to reason out the matter clearly.

"I do not want such things," he said. Her arm crept up about his neck. A tender light, that was new to them, welled in the eyes of Nemone, the Queen of Cathne. "Tarzan," she whispered. . . . And then a door at the far end of the chamber was slowly opened by a claw-like hand!

DRIVE CAREFULLY TODAY

FAIR WEATHER DANGERS

The majority of serious traffic accidents occur where least expected, due to lack of attention and too fast driving because of apparently favorable conditions such as straight, dry, unobstructed roadway with the driver going straight ahead. Constant alertness to the business at hand is the price of safety.

'Just Shot the Devil Out of Them,' Says Officer Who Trained Barrow

ST. LOUIS, May 23.—(AP)—"We just shot the devil out of them." Thus Frank Hamer, former Texas Ranger captain, today described in a copyrighted telephone interview with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch the slaying near Arcadia, La., of Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker.

"Sure," he said, "I can tell you what happened this morning. We just shot the devil out of them, that's all. That's all there was to it. We just laid a trap for them. A steel trap. You know Bessemer steel, like gun barrels are made of.

"There were six of us, two deputy sheriffs from Texas, a Texas state highway patrolman, Sheriff Henderson from Arcadia, and his deputy, Mr. Oakley, and myself.

"We were hiding beside the road. All six of us on one side—we didn't want any cross-fire—and when they came along we boomed at them to stop. They both reached for their guns, but were kind of slow. They didn't get to fire a shot. The car smashed into an embankment after we fired. Clyde was driving when we tried to stop them. Bonnie was sitting beside him.

"Now don't, please, put it in your paper that I'm with the Rangers. I'm not. I was for 27 years, but when they elected a woman governor (former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson) I quit. That was on November 1, 1932, just before she took office.

Hamer said he had been searching for Barrow and Bonnie Parker for the last six months. He said he had been employed by a law officer to make the search, but declined to say what agency employed him, "because there's some other tough-shooting fellows I may be hired to go after."
